Listed as First Occurrence of Damage To American Post During War.

BULLETIN

TOKYO—(U.P.)—The Japanese Domei news agency reported from Saigon, French Indo-China, today that agents of the Chinese Chungking government were suspected for a bomb explosion at the United States consulate in Saigon last night.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—The state department announced today that the American consulate at Saigon, French Indo-China was wrecked by a bomb last night.

The department said that no member of the staff had been injured, and complete details were lacking.

Officials declared that this was the first occurrence of damage to any American diplomatic post during the war in the Far East.

The official announcement said: "The state department is informed that the American consulate at Saigon, French Indo-China was wrecked by a bomb last night.

"It was reported that no member of the staff was injured. Members of the staff are: Consul, Sidney H. Browne, vice-consul, Kingsley W. Hamilton and an American clerk, Miss Carolyn C. Jacobs."

The state department said that Browne's home is at Short Hills, N. J., Hamilton's at Wooster, O., and Miss Jacobs is from Richmond, Mo.

Responsible quarters in Washington revealed meanwhile that this week may prove the crucial one in the American-Japanese exploratory talks.

Name Shelby Man As Ohio Director Of OPM Contracts

C. R. Terry of Shelby, who helped direct the defense caravan and clinic held here on Sept. 16 to aid Mansfield area manufacturers obtain defense contracts, today was appointed state director of the division of contract distribution of the Office of Production Management.

The OPM's Cleveland office was advised that Terry would assume the new post as part of a new policy under which the division will be de-centralized.

Terry, who was promoted from the position of division manager for the Cleveland area, acted as an aid to Herman H. Lind, Canton, former deputy coordinator for the division. Lind was in charge of the defense clinic which set up headquarters in a one-day session at the Mansfield-Leland hotel to allow manufacturers from this district to "shop" for contracts.

Announcement was also made today that Lind had been appointed chairman of a state advisory committee, yet to be named. Floyd B. Odlum, national director of the division, made both new appointments.

Both Terry and Lind are "on loan" to the government from private industry. The office for emergency management in Cleveland said that it did not know salary arrangements in Terry's case.

Mercury Drops To 24 As City Gets Taste Of Winter

A sample of winter, less severe than expected, today dropped the mercury to 24 in Mansfield, one of the lowest readings of the season.

It may be colder tonight, the weatherman said, but he promised clear skies and rising temperature for Tuesday. The mercury stood at 27 at 11 a. m. and was still below freezing at noon.

Snow and rain Saturday night and early Sunday left about a third of an inch of precipitation in Mansfield and made highways in the area slippery for travel. Highest temperature Sunday was 38.

With fair weather and rising temperatures reported over most of the western states today, there was no immediate threat of snow or extreme cold. Freak atmospheric conditions today dropped the mercury to seven above zero in Springfield, Ill., to make the city the coldest in the eastern half of the nation. In Chicago the low was 28.

Arbitration Board Ready To Consider UMW Request For 'Closed Shop.'

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — A three-man arbitration board prepared to meet today or tomorrow to consider United Mine Workers' demands for a union shop in "captive" mines amidst increasing belief among some observers that the board's decision would be satisfactory to John L. Lewis.

Since the government has no official representative on the arbitration board a decision to grant the union shop would not place the government in the position of forcing union membership on any worker — action that President Roosevelt has said it would never take.

There was another school of thought, however, which believed that pressure of public opinion and the threat of drastic anti-strike legislation forced UMWA President Lewis to call off his strike and accept arbitration. Those observers considered Lewis' decision a victory for President Roosevelt.

Those who predicted that the arbitration decision would be acceptable to Lewis believed that if the recommendation is not for a union shop it would propose a similar provision which would (Continued on Page 14, Col. 5)

Seven Injured In Inter-Union Dispute at Mt. Clemens.

MT. CLEMENS, Mich. — (AP) — Seven persons were injured, none seriously, in inter-union rioting this morning at the gates of the Mt. Clemens Pottery company, a subsidiary of the S. S. Kresge company.

Members of the United Pottery Workers (CIO) voted Sunday to go on strike because, they charged, five UPW-CIO members had been discharged without sufficient reason.

When a picket line, estimated by police at 100 persons, formed this morning, members of the Pottery Workers Co-operative union, an independent rival of the UPW-CIO, crashed the picket line. Both unions claim majority membership.

Charles E. Dow, manager of the plant, said it was operating with an estimated 100 workers who succeeded in getting in the plant, which normally employs 1,000 men and women.

Car Smashes Old Wooden Bridge On Day Work Starts On New One

Driver Escapes 10-Foot Drop As Auto Teeters On Span's Edge.

A car driven by George D. Carpenter, Columbus, crashed into the barricade at the temporary bridge over Touby's run on North Main street early today, just a few hours before the county was to have started removing the bridge to begin work on the much-discussed $6,000 wooden structure over the stream.

Carpenter escaped injury although his car tore down about 10 feet of the barricade and tottered precariously on the edge of the bridge. The car would have dropped 10 feet into the stream had it been going a little faster or struck the wooden barricade a little farther to the right. The front of the car was badly damaged.

Work on the new bridge was delayed a second time this morning when heavy equipment to be used on the project was not unloaded in time to start on schedule, County Engineer Howard Sword said.

The equipment, including a steam crane owned by the Purdy Construction company, Mansfield, was shipped here from Newark and was still on the railroad car at noon today.

"If we can get it unloaded in time, we'll start to work on the bridge Tuesday," Sword said.

Work was to have started last Monday, but the steam crane was in Newark and needed overhauling before it was returned here for use on the bridge job.

Although Carpenter said he saw no warning lights at the narrow bridge on North Main street this morning, City Electrician Ernest Adams said power supplying the lights was not turned off until 7 a. m., 10 minutes after Carpenter's car crashed through the barricade. The car tore the wires loose that supplied the lights.

The temporary bridge, just wide enough for two vehicles to pass at limited speed, has served traffic over North Main street and state route 13 since an old stone bridge collapsed two years ago last spring. Today's accident was the first reported at the structure.

The county immediately repaired the damaged railing and lights at the west side of the bridge after the accident this morning. County commissioners said they would keep one side of the bridge open while the new one is being built.

Missing by inches a plunge into Touby's Run 10 feet below, a car smashed into the end of the wood railing at the temporary wooden bridge on North Main street early this morning and balanced on the edge of the floor of the bridge. The above photo shows how George D. Carpenter, Columbus, left the car when he climbed out uninjured. The county was scheduled to start removing the bridge today but delayed the work because equipment did not arrive in time.

CONFER HERE ON JOB TRAINING

Canton Westinghouse Official To Discuss School Here For Furloughed Workers.

In line with the company's recent announcement that furloughed employes of the Mansfield Westinghouse plant will be able to obtain jobs at the Westinghouse shell factory in Canton, a conference had been scheduled today to discuss the training of employes for the Canton jobs.

O. J. Manse, defense training director of the Canton plant, said that he will be in Mansfield tomorrow for a conference concerning the type of workers needed and the training they will be required to have.

Manse said he plans to meet with Robert Brown, of New Philadelphia, director of the Ohio State Employment service; V. H. Oberlander of the vocational department at Mansfield Senior high school, and C. W. Handley, director of the Mansfield branch of the employment service.

Handley said this morning that training schools similar to that proposed for Mansfield are now being operated by Westinghouse at Canton, Dover and Massillon.

Those attending the training classse there are paid 45 cents per hour by Westinghouse, Handley said.

Manse said this morning that so far no wage payments are contemplated for the Mansfield training program.

Mansfield, County Free Of Fatal Mishaps, 14 Die In Ohio

Having received more than its quota of Thanksgiving holiday deaths with four persons being killed in area accidents, the Mansfield vicinity escaped listing on the week-end traffic toll which took the lives of 14 Ohioans.

Only a few accidents were reported and only one person was seriously injured. Light snow Saturday night made driving hazardous but only a few collisions were reported.

William Gay, 21, of Youngstown, suffered a broken collar-bone early yesterday when the car in which he was riding skidded and overturned on state route 224, east of Ruggles. Gay was riding with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gay, who were uninjured.

Mansfield police, Richland county authorities and state highway patrolmen investigated only a few collisions, most of them involving property damage.

A truck-trailer driven by G. W. Bollinger, Maywood, Ill., and an auto operated by Spencer Chase, jr., Fort Wayne, Ind., sideswiped each other on U. S. route 30-N, just east of Crestline, late yesterday. Both vehicles were damaged but the drivers escaped injury.

Personal Tax Bills Sent Out To 1,300 In County.

Personal tax statements went out today to more than 1,300 Richland countians who owe $170,785 in levies for the final half of the year.

Although books for the collection of the last-half personal levies opened today, only a few property owners paid their taxes at the county treasurer's office. Treasurer Charles C. Payne expects the rush to start when the mailman delivers the statements.

Property owners will have about five and a half weeks, or until Dec. 30, to pay their final taxes for the year without penalty.

More than half the personal tax bill for the year was paid during the first-half collection period when the receipts amounted to $172,310. Personal levies are collected on factory and office equipment, livestock, farm tools and investments.

British Assert U. S. Planes, Tanks 'Worth Weight In Gold'

By VIRGIL M. PINKLEY
(UP Staff Correspondent)

BRITISH ADVANCED BATTLE HEADQUARTERS, IN THE WESTERN DESERT — The report of British fighting men on America's weapons after six days of searing battle against the best fighting machines the Axis produces, is:

U. S. tanks — "My God, they pack a wallop."

U. S. planes — "Worth their weight in gold."

An incomplete check-up at this constantly shifting vantage point in the "sea battle of the African desert" showed that American tanks already have given the knock-out blow to at least 60 Axis tanks.

The British are deploying the light, fast, maneuverable American fighting machines in much the manner that they utilize destroyers and cruisers in a naval action. The American machines scurry around the Axis tanks, rounding them up and then slash in to deliver quick, stinging death holws.

The speed of the American tanks is such that they frequently have been able to flank the German machines and box them in.

600,000 Men and Heavy Tank Force Thrown Into Battle For Russian Capital.

REDS CLAIM GAINS, TOO.

Successful Counter - Attacks Reported In Rostov and Leningrad Fronts.

(By Associated Press)

KUIBYSHEV, Russia — German troops which drove a new wedge between Moscow and Kalinin and swarmed against the Red army's second lines of defense south and west of the capital put Moscow today in its most serious danger of the war.

Military sources declared, however, that on the southern front, where German tanks battered their way into the Don river port of Rostov, the Red army had launched its greatest counter-attack of the war, driving back the Germans in some places as much as 37 miles across the Donets plateau.

The Russians declared that violent street fighting continued in Rostov itself. (The German high command declared last Saturday that the port was captured and firmly in German hands.)

Military reports said bluntly that the Red army had entered the most critical period in its resistance against a fierce onslaught toward Moscow aimed at taking "most important objectives."

In this "supreme drive" the Germans were estimated to have hurled more than 40 divisions—roughly 600,000 men—and half their tank force against the stubbornly-defended approaches to the capital.

Military dispatches said this powerful attacking force had trust a new wedge into the Russian right wing in the vicinity of Klin, 50 miles northwest of Moscow, in an attempt to cut between the capital and Kalinin, 95 miles northwest of Moscow.

The fighting here was the nearest to the capital yet reported by the Russians. (The Germans said today they had smashed to about 31 miles from Moscow.

Fighting off attack after attack by tank and mechanized forces, the Russians declared they were holding firmly to their positions at Kalinin and Volokolamsk, flanking the new wedge.

Fierce resistance also was being put up against the Nazi drive along the Napoleonic invasion road past Mozhaisk, 37 miles west of the (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

California's 'Anti-Oakie' Act Held Unconstitutional.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The supreme court held unconstitutional today California legislation which prohibited anyone from assisting non-resident indigent persons to come into the state.

Justice Byrnes delivered the decision on what was popularly known as the "Anti-Oakie" law, intended to discourage the movement into the state of persons believed likely to become public charges.

Twenty-seven other states were said to have similar statutes.

Byrnes said in the decision that the legislation "imposes an unconstitutional burden upon interstate commerce."

Development In Multi-Front War Given At Glance

AFRICA—British forces report capture of important Axis supply base, say tank battle continues. Italians and Germans counter with claims of heavy destruction of British units.

RUSSIA — Germans launch "supreme drive" for Moscow, report advance units within 30 miles of Russian capital. Soviets admit slow retreat in central sector but report important gains in counter-attacks on Leningrad and southern fronts.

AT SEA—British claim damage to seven Italian vessels rushing reinforcements to troops in Africa, say Italian cruiser and destroyer are believed to have been sunk.

IN THE AIR—British and Germans trade blows. RAF planes hammer German occupied France and Nazi channel ports. German raiders reported over Thames estuary, western and southwestern England during night.

Speed Reinforcements to Back Up Hard-Pressed Troops In Bitter Struggle.

BULLETIN

LONDON—(AP)—The extreme British left wing has swept westward a total of more than 200 miles since the beginning of the Libyan invasion, Axis sources themselves disclosed today, while the right was claiming the capture of the important Axis supply center of Gambut along the shores of the Mediterranean.

(By Associated Press)

CAIRO, Egypt — British forces smashing westward along the Libyan Mediterranean coast have captured the important Axis supply center of Gambut, approximately half way to the besieged British garrison at Tobruk, the British Middle East command announced today.

This success followed hard upon capture of Bardia, a move by which the British reached the Mediterranean to trap strong Axis forces along the Egyptian-Libyan border. An unofficial report said 15,000 Axis prisoners were taken yesterday.

The British said that altogether the Axis armies had been battered into four separate isolated groups, with the Empire forces seeking to annihilate them.

The British forces which broke through the Axis siege lines at Tobruk were reported to have fought their way to within four miles of their comrades coming in from the east and south.

The main battle—pictured as a great clash of the world's most modern tanks and mechanized equipment, with American-made machines playing a major role—raged in the vicinity of Sidi Rezegh, 10 miles southeast of Tobruk.

The Germans were rushing reinforcements to their air force, and a British spokesman acknowledged that the air opposition in Libya was increasing. He added, however, that the Axis strength was being concentrated in the back areas rather than on the battlefield.

Make Last-Ditch Effort To Line Up Price Control Bill

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — After four months of study, price control legislation finally reached the house floor today for a week of debate, with administration forces committed to last-ditch efforts to bring the bill into line with President Roosevelt's wishes.

Speaker Rayburn and Democratic Leader McCormack of Massachusetts informed friends that they hoped the house would restore original sections which would create a system of licensing business to make the program effective.

And they served notice, too, that they opposed the limitation which the banking and currency committee imposed on the government's authority to buy or sell commodities to stabilize prices.

Many members predicted more serious trouble would develop over attempts that will be made on the floor to substitute an "overall" price fixing program which would apply to rents and wages, as preferable to the committee-approved scheme of fixed ceilings on individual commodities when their prices got "out of line," and on rents in defense areas.

Rep. Gore (D., Tenn.) and Bernard M. Baruch, World war industries chieftain, have argued that price control would be ineffective unless it applied to all major elements of the cost of living. Gore has offered legislation for such a program.

But Leon Henderson, price administrator, and house leaders contended a wage ceiling would be difficult to enforce.

other on U. S. route 30-S, three miles west of Mansfield, according to state highway patrolmen, L. W. Bogan, 167 Wood street, told patrolmen that he was forced to swerve to avoid missing an auto coming out of a side road and sideswiped another auto operated by James R. Gebhardt, Bucyrus.

Four persons were admitted to the Bucyrus city hospital for treatment after a collision in southern Wyandotte county yesterday afternoon.

Cars driven by Mrs. Willis Bineau, 38, Upper Sandusky, R. D. 2, and Edward Hieber, 43, Bloomville, R. D. 2, collided on a county road one-half mile north of the Eden Center school, just south of Sycamore.

Mrs. Bineau was taken to the hospital and was reported to be in a semi-conscious condition suffering from a possible skull fracture. Her condition was reported as "fair." Phyllis Bineau, her daughter, escaped injury.

Hieber was treated at the hospital for head lacerations and bruises. His wife, Blanche, 42, suffered fractured ribs, a back injury and lacerations of the left knee.

Three of four Hieber children, riding in the car, were injured. Richard, 11, was admitted to the hospital for treatment of several lacerations of the left eye and leg and bruises as well as shock.

Donald, 13, was treated for a fractured jaw and a badly lacerated forehead. Carol Ann, 6, was admitted to the hospital for examination.

Mrs. Ida Miller, 70, Mrs. Hieber's mother, received a compound fracture of her left elbow and a possible skull fracture. She had been released from the hospital only last month following an operation.

A slushy snow that blanketed the Todedo area was blamed for three of the deaths. Roy Felkey, 20, of Pemberville, and Clyde McCoy, 18, of Gibsonburg, died in the crash of an automobile that skidded on slippery pavement near Genoa and crashed into a utility pole. James Little, 21, apprentice seaman in the U. S. navy training school, was struck by an automobile whose driver said his vision was blurred by falling snow.

Other week-end fatalities included:

Cleveland—Leo Margo, 55, and John J. Vraich, 48, both struck by automobiles.

Toledo—Donald Fry, 34, injured in crash of army jeep car.

Columbus—Thomas F Carpenter 85, struck by automobile.

Akron—Herbert M. Cole, 40, struck by automobile.

Kent—Lyle Terry, 53, struck while he walked along road

Bellevue—Alfred J Farnsworth, struck by automobile; Fred J. Brandt, from auto crash injuries.

Cincinnati—George Dell Bruegge 67, hit by car which tossed him into path of another.

Children Burned To Death as Fire Levels Home.

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Three small children were dead today, trapped in the flaming collapse of the frame dwelling in which they lived at nearby Northfield.

The victims were Janet, 6; John, 5; and Edward Huntington, 18 months. Donald Huntington, 35, father of the children, was near death in a hospital of severe burns, and his wife, Helena, 30, and an eight-month-old infant, Daniel, were being treated for burns.

Chief Howard M. Brown of the Northfield volunteer fire department said it was possible that fumes from one of two coal stoves in the house could have been ignited from the heat.

British Assert U. S. Planes, Tanks 'Worth Weight In Gold'

ain's eighth army is American-built. Most of the motorized transport comes from the United States or Canada.

The American tanks are M-3 models, 13-ton light machines. They are manned by Scottish, English and Welsh crews.

On one occasion, the American machines saved the day when a German tank division attacked a British brigade, hoping to roll it back and get on the flanks of two other British armored brigades.

Had the German plan succeeded it would have held up the British advance, cut the German losses from air attacks, and bogged down the follow-through attacks of British infantry.

I asked a tank crew how they liked their American machines.

"They are sweet to handle," the leader said. "They may be small but my God they pack a wallop."

The success of the U. S. machines in their first action has resulted in British authorities requiring more on a rush basis for future battles.

The story on American planes is the same.

Air Vice Marshal Arthur Coningham, commander of the Royal Air Force units in the battle, said: "Our Tomahawks are worth their weight in gold."

Coningham had only one request to make of American industry—to produce and rush to the middle east more planes—particularly Tomahawks. Douglas Boston bombers, and Martin Maryland and Baltimore bombers.

row's ceremony as marking continental solidarity against both Russian Pan-Slavism and "World Bolshevism."

Although German efforts to bring France and Turkey into the alignment have been increasingly apparent it remained anybody's guess whether either country would be represented tomorrow.

The continental anti-comintern line-up as it will stand after the adherence of the seven new nations tomorrow will leave just Turkey, Portugal, Sweden, Switzerland, Greece, France, Belgium and The Netherlands outside the fold.

French adherence, Germans said, was impractical until relations between Vichy and the Axis powers had been definitely settled by a final peace agreement replacing the Armistice.

Persistent reports of another impending meeting, at which Adolf Hitler, Premier Mussolini and Marshal Petain would sit down at the conference table, remained uncontirmed here.

There have been widespread reports of late that Hitler was planning some sort of political surprise regarding the European situation.

Only last Saturday a White House statement said he had in mind the arrangement of some "high sounding formula or economic rehabilitation and restoration of independence for all European nations."

Vichy has announced that Marshal Petain would go to occupied France early this week to see a high German official, possibly Hitler himself.

It was hinted further that the marshal's trip might be connected in some way with Mediterranean developments, possibly involving Spain.

Recent European advices to the Associated Press indicated the Germans were pressing the Vichy regime to cast its lot out-and-out with the AXIS, perhaps to the extent of full membership in the new order, tendering air bases and transit facilities to German and Italy to bolster them against the British offensive in Libya, and convoying Italian ships in the Mediterranean.

Canton Man Pleads Innocent To Shooting Daughter.

CANTON — (AP) — Hubert Ray Doney, 47-year-old coal truck driver, pleaded innocent and was held to the grand jury today on a first degree murder charge in the fatal shooting of his married daughter, Mrs. Almeda B. Whitmer, 23.

Prosecutor A. C. Barthelmeh said the truck driver fired three shots into his daughter's body because she sided with her mother in a family dispute, and that the father expressed "no regrets" over the killing.

"Doney said he shot her deliberately and was ready for his medicine," said the prosecutor, adding that the prisoner was "intent upon killing his wife, Jeanette, who he said had left him recently."

Asserts Britain's War With Germany 'Our Fight' Too

LONDON — (AP) — Britain's war with Germany is "our fight," W. Averell Harriman, U S war aid expediter, told Britons last night and he declared "our navy is shooting Germans — German submarines and aircraft at sea."

Harriman, who returned last week from Washington conferences with President Roosevelt, said in a radio address that the president "understands clearly the interdependency of American destiny with that of the British."

"He hates Hitler and all he stands for with the same burning hatred as does Winston Churchill," the war air chieftain said.

capital, and near Tula, 100 miles south of Moscow, military reports said.

It was in these sectors that the Russians acknowledged German gains won by sheer weight of numbers and said assault waves were battering at the Red army's second lines.

Pravda reported that strong land fortifications barred further German progress toward the capital and predicted that the Germans would encounter "many surprises in the network of barriers before them.

To the south, where the Russians were counter-attacking, the Germans were said to have left more than 7,000 dead along a 70-mile front northwest of Rostov.

To the north the Red army claimed the recapture of the rail line town of Malaya Vishera, 95 miles southeast of Leningrad.

A German tank drive was said to have forced the Russians to withdraw from Mozhaisk, 57 miles west of Moscow.

Soviet reverses were pictured also in the bitter battle of Tula with acknowledgement that Russian troops were being pressed back inch-by-inch southeast of that munitions center 100 miles below Moscow.

The army newspaper Red Star announced that Maj. Gen. Ivan Panfilov, commander of the Eighth Guards infantry division, had been killed in action defending the approaches of Moscow.

Thirty Miles From Moscow, Say Nazis

BERLIN—(INS)—A sensational new advance which brought German troops within 30 miles of Moscow was claimed by the German high command.

A high command war communique issued from Chancellor Hitler's military quarters said:

"The German offensive gained further ground on the central sector.

"Tank formations captured Solnech Nogorski, 30 miles northwest of Moscow."

The communique added that the Luftwaffe attacked and caused traffic interruptions on several Russian railroads in the Moscow region.

Bomb Wrecks Nazi Shop In France

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Private advices to the United Press today said that a bomb which exploded in Paris destroyed a German bookshop in the St. Mihiel district.

The bombing was the first since a series of similar incidents some time ago caused German occupation authorities to order severe reprisals for anti-German activities.

Early reports of the latest Paris bombing, which occurred early today, did not indicate whether the explosion had caused casualties. There was also no indication as to whether arrests had been made or what measures were ordered by the German authorities.

RAF Stages Sweep Of Channel Ports

LONDON — (INS) — British fighters staged a new sweep over German-occupied northern France today after RAF bombers hammered the Nazi channel naval bases during the night.

The air ministry announced the RAF bombed the docks at Lorient, Brest and Dunkirk as well as enemy airdromes in northern France during the night.

This morning the fighters staged their new offensive only a few hours after the bombers returned.

During the hours of darkness, Nazi raiders appeared over the Thames estuary, South Wales, and western and southwestern England.

decision as to whether or not it is willing to proceed with the discussions on the basis of the principles laid down by Secretary of State Hull. One of the principles is Japan's withdrawal from the Axis alliance.

Although a wide difference of opinion still exists between the two countries on the points at issue, the conversations have not reached a complete deadlock.

There are definite indications that Japan would like to get around Axis difficulties by letting the alliance become a dead letter without renouncing it outright.

Tokyo is understood to feel that this could be accomplished by assurances that Japan would not move further south in the Pacific, and would remain neutral in the Russo-German conflict.

Hull, however, is reported to be insisting on Japan's complete renunciation of the Axis alliance on the ground that this country cannot enter into any friendly agreement with any nation which is aiding, directly or indirectly, the Nazi movement of world conquest.

Hull is understood to have informed the two Japanese envoys, Saburo Kurusu and Ambasshevy Kichisaburo Nomura, in a three-hour informal talk on Saturday night, that the other members of the ABCD united front in the Pacific stand squarly behind America's position in the discussion.

Hull received such assurances from the diplomatic representatives of Great Britain, Australia, the Netherlands and China earlier in the day.

The question of the Japanese government's ability to control its military forces is understood to be figuring largely in the discussion.

This government wants Premier Tojo to order a withdrawal of the Japanese forces from French Indo-China as a test of Tokyo's claim that it can make the military respect any agreement of peace with this country.

In connection with the problem of settling the Sino-Japanese war, it was learned that the United States is not insisting on a complete withdrawal of Japanese forces from China at one time.

This government recognizes that withdrawal of Japanese forces must be gradual, so as to provide time for reoccupation of Chinese territory, and time for Japan to perfect a plan for large-scale army demobilization.

CONGRESSMAN DEDICATES NEW U. S. POSTOFFICE AT CRESTLINE

CRESTLINE — The Hon. Frederick C. Smith, member of congress, 8th Ohio district, gave the address at the dedication of Crestline's new $73,000 postoffice here.

The ceremonies opened with the high school band playing the national anthem at the close of which a committee from the American Legion had charge of the flag raising ceremony. A. C Smith, assisted by A T. O'Leary, raised the flag and other members of the committee were color bearers. Frank Strauch and Roy Payne and color guards, Fred Albright and William Albright.

Postmaster F. Paul Hayes gave the history of the local postoffice, stating that the first office was established here on Aug. 26, 1851, with Renssealer Livingston as postmaster.

The office was known as Livingston, the name of the village at that time. Three postmasters served under this name.

The name of the village was changed to Crestline on Sept. 4, 1854, and Mr. Hayes is the 13th postmaster serving since the change.

Invocation was given by Rev. S. A. Metzger, pastor of the English Lutheran church, and Mayor L. F. Waldbauer gave the address of welcome.

O. R. McGahey of Pittsburgh, superintendent of the Railway Mail Service, gave a short address featuring the service of that department.

H. L. French of Marion, government representative present, and district inspector spoke of the value of the building to the community and also spoke of defense bonds.

Hon. William Thom of Canton, congressman of the 15th Ohio district, gave a short talk. A number of postmasters from surrounding towns also were present.

The building was open for public inspection during the afternoon and evening.

The local office has a force of 25 employes, 19 regulars and six extra members. Four names appear on the retirement list.

In the Railway Mail service which has offices on the second floor of the new building, eight are employed. This department moved into their new quarters last Friday and the postoffice force are moving this week and expect to be ready for business at the new location by Dec. 1.

MANSFIELD, OHIO, MONDAY, NOVEMBER 24, 1941.

Concession Is Not a Solution

ACCEPTANCE of a final mediation plan, and re-opening of "captive" coal mines which had been closed for a week by strike, can be regarded as no more than a temporary expedient rather than a permanent solution of the troubles that have long existed in the mining industry.

The agreement reached late Saturday is one that should have been arrived at a week earlier, so that there would have been no interruption of coal production by "captive" mines or the associated "sympathy" strikes by commercial mine employes, with resultant acts of violence.

The expressed attitude of the CIO, in its national convention held in Detroit last week, pledging whole-hearted support of President Roosevelt's foreign policies and offering government and industry "our full resources for the maximum prosecution of the national defense program," may have exerted strong influence on the policy committee of the United Mine Workers, as the mine strike and the CIO pledge were utterly irreconcilable.

Mediation, under the present arrangement, appears to have simmered down to a decision by one man—John R. Steelman—as the positions of John L. Lewis and Benjamin F. Fairless, the other mediators, are quite well known in advance, and as President Roosevelt has made it clear that the government cannot order a closed shop, which has been the only point in controversy in connection with "captive" mines.

In the strike of miners, the threatened strike of railroad employes, and the wave of industrial strikes over the country, emphasis has been placed on interference with the national defense program, but the whole labor situation, with recurrence of jurisdictional disputes and closed shop demands, indicates need for quick development of governmental labor policies which will serve effectively in peace time as well as in war emergency, and the first step in this direction would appear to be appointment of a confidence-inspiring secretary of labor to supplant Frances Perkins, who has been no more than a figurehead in that position.

Nor does the leadership of Mrs. Norton, congresswoman from New Jersey, as chairman of the house labor committee, seem to give that important committee the strength and stability it should have at such a crucial time.

Congress is rightly holding to the idea that some form of legislation should be enacted to prevent further strikes in defense industries, but, if good judgment can be shown during the present heat of argument, it appears that congressional action should extend further than immediate problems and attempt to set up a plan designed for permanent rather than temporary application.

Looking Toward Tax Day

ACCORDING to Secretary Morgenthau, the public still does not realize how stiff the new federal income levies will be. He believes that many taxpayers haven't considered the problem of paying those taxes.

It has not been too difficult, hitherto, to pay taxes on a given year's earnings out of the next year's earnings. It won't be so easy in 1942, however, or for many years to come. The treasury department is distributing, chiefly through banks, millions of pamphlets showing about what anyone with income from $750 to $25,000 will have to pay.

Bankers have not yet been pushing the tax anticipation notes by which the government makes it easier to budget those taxes but may begin to do so. Purchasable in amounts of $25, $50, and $100, and paying a little interest, such notes enable any thrifty and forehanded taxpayers to face the Ides of March, 1942, with confidence. If he can buy enough this month and next to cover most of the income tax that will be due on next March 15 he will accomplish the wise act of paying the tax from the income taxed.

Parachutes for Air Travelers

OLD-TIME wooden coaches of early-day railroads were equipped with a prominently displayed axe, intended for use by passengers in chopping their way out in the event of a wreck.

Ships are supplied with enough life preservers and life boats to accommodate passengers and crew if emergency should arise.

Air transportation is now looking toward better safeguards for travelers, in case of accident, and Major Thomas Lanphier suggests that parachutes should be provided for all passengers.

It has been argued by some airplane operators that parachutes would "scare" prospective passengers by suggesting the possibility of an accident, but it seems not unlikely that by another generation training in parachute jumping will become a part of civilian education, as it now is in some branches of military service.

While the idea of a parachute jump from a mile or more in the air may not be generally appealing, knowledge of the availability of a parachute, in event of need, might be rather comforting to air travelers.

Demand for 'Horror' Movies

THIS GENERATION, a little superior about the superstitions of other times and peoples, has a few eccentricities of its own. One of these, as revealed by activities in Hollywood, is a surprising enthusiasm for werewolves. Horror movies continue to be in great demand and the producers therefore continue to make them.

Have psychologists an explanation for this craving on the part of American movie-goers? With terror, tragedy and menace so real in a large part of the world and casting long shadows over this country, why should millions of men and women seek movies that "scare the living daylights out of them," as one reviewer says?

Perhaps the relief people feel when they come out of a theater and realize that it was all make-believe carries over into the field of their other anxieties. Perhaps it makes them feel for a while that the war is not real, either.

If that is so, it is hardly a wholesome situation. Greater courage can be mustered by honestly facing the worst and working to prevent it than by pretending there is no danger and that the only horrors in 1941 are created for entertainment by the artists of Hollywood.

Never mind about how many "shopping days" there are left—it's time to be doing your Christmas buying now.

RAP TWICE AND ASK FOR GUS

Question 'Surplus' Buying Power

—By CARTER FIELD

HOW much buying power have people got, anyway? The evidence is conflicting.

One theory is that we have an excess of it, that incomes are skyhooting, and that presently we'll be buying so fast that we'll boost prices enormously and have inflation.

In fact, there's an upward price tendency already. This school of thought's contention is that it's necessary to tax us like fury, taking away so much of our money that we won't have enough left to over-buy ourselves.

Up on Capitol Hill, however, you discover that practically every senator and representative has bushel basketsful of letters from his constituents, hollering, "We haven't got any of that alleged excess buying power, and, if anybody else has, we're unacquainted with him. What little buinyg we're able to do wouldn't inflate a balloon the size of a thimble."

This makes our congressmen pretty thoughtful. They gather that higher taxation isn't going to be very popular and, if they vote for it, they may not be re-elected, come next November.

Such yowling is super-audible elsewhere than on Capitol Hill. It resounds also through all the halls of Washington's National Press club, which I infest considerably. And the press has its influence as well as constituents. I know very few newspapermen who feel that their buying power is excessive, and they're quite vocal on the subject.

I mention the National Press club particularly because, a few days ago, notwithstanding its members' poverty-stricken howling it furnished the higher taxationers with an argument in favor of their program.

A Social Event.

Periodically the club pulls off a banquet with the president as its guest of honor. It's an exceedingly classy occasion. Everybody appears in spike tails. His Excellency sits at the head of the main table. High-up officials swarm in the big auditorium dining room. Distinguished visitors from all over the country are present. Federal secret services lurk in every nook and corner. Finally the president makes a speech. It's an event of the first consequence. The demand for tickets is many, many times the size of the supply of 'em.

Well, one of these functions was slated recently. F. D. had accepted his invitation. It was announced when and where admission cards would be obtainable.

Seventy-five cents per head is the normal price for a Press club feed and, even at that, a good many members generally say they can't stand the gaff, and economize on the affair by not attending.

Three measly little 25-cent pieces, though, manifestly weren't a financial circumstance, in comparison with a blow-out of such importance as the one scheduled. The tariff was hiked to $6.50. The mob that turned up, after those tickets, was a record breaker. And why not? They were going to dine with the president of the United States and then he was going to address 'em.

Only one flaw in the affair developed itself.

F. D. had a sinus that was bothering him so much that his doc told him he couldn't leave the White House at that juncture, and he wasn't present.

F. D. R. to Sing.

He sent his deep regrets. He did get off a little talk from his bedroom, over the radio. He likewise promised to sing a song at the next reception in his honor.

Nevertheless, it's open to a lot of doubt that there'd have been such a swarm for $6.50 tickets if the purchasers had known, in time, that their $6.50's weren't going to buy 'em the privilege of sitting in the same dining room with the White House tenant in person and listening to him orating at 'em directly.

It was a nice banquet, but it was a deflated one.

Rest Clubs for Tired Business Men.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THERE are all kinds of walking clubs, tennis clubs, golf clubs, athletic clubs and associations, at which to meet and have exercise before lunch, and to play squash or handball before dinner. These are all based on the idea that what we need is more activity.

I wish to echo the sentiment of Dr. H. S. Diehl, who wants to institute some Rest clubs. Most of the people that I see seem to me to need rest more than they do activity or exercise. Sometimes it takes hours for business men of my acquaintance to get over the session in the gymnasium—hours and a little artificial stimulation.

Place to Relax

How nice it would be—in contrast to going in and taking the trouble of putting on a gymnasium suit and a sweat shirt and pushing a big heavy ball and swinging on the horizontal bars until the glazed eyes stick out of the flushed face—to go to a nice quiet rest club, where all you did in the afternoon was walk into a room, lie down on a comfortable couch with a soft mattress, and relax and relax and relax.

The club rooms of the rest club must be placed in some entirely quiet environment; the windows should look out on a scene of bucolic peace. Far from any elevators or street car tracks or jazz bands! The carpets in the room must be thick.

The members will walk in and be assigned to their individual couches, and prepare themselves to unbend for an hour or two. No newspapers will be rattled; nobody will mention the war.

Reading will be permitted if desired, provided it consists of detective stories or such standbys as "Alice in Wonderland," "The Three Musketeers" or the "Pickwick Papers." Conversation will not be prohibited, but will not be encouraged. There can be women's rest club also, but the sexes will be segregated during the rest period for obvious reasons.

Nobody can calculate how much benefit this would be to the health of the nation, especially in the present crisis. Nobody can over-estimate the value of rest as a means of treatment and of refining the reservoirs of energy. I had a patient once who said to me, "If everyone stayed in bed every minute of their life, I believe that no one would ever die." Ironically enough, she died doing some mountain climbing.

We all have too much of a feeling that we should do something positive and vigorous about our health. We must come to the realization that simply lying quietly in a rest club will be of much more benefit than a lot of strenuous exercise.

When Nation Grows Up

"We are still too much inclined to boast of the small amount of rest on which we can get along," says Dr. Diehl in his book "Healthful Living" (McGraw-Hill Book Company). "We still cling to the mad desire to get everything done in a day. To entice the average American to rest in the daytime, one must camouflage the rest with mysterious measures such as light treatments, massage or sun-bathing. Possibly when as a nation we have grown up, we shall learn to take life more leisurely."

Washington Merry-Go-Round

America Firsters Plan Big Drive, May Promote New Political Party

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—The inner moguls of the America First committee have some secret and highly significant plans up their sleeve. These plans touch the realms of politics and propaganda.

They were lengthily discussed last week at a secret Washington meeting of the ruling members of the America First executive board. Also present were Senators Burt Wheeler and Gerald Nye, Representative Karl Mundt, South Dakota Republican, and Archbishop Francis Beckman of Dubuque, Iowa. General Robert Wood, America First boss, presided.

The plans deliberated covered a four-point program:

1. A move to impeach Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox.
2. An anti-war drive among the clergy of the country on the basis that Communism will sweep the United States if it becomes involved in war.
3. Redoubling of isolationist agitation, with scores of Lindbergh, Wheeler, Nye, and other rallies in every section of the country, coupled with an intensified radio barrage.
4. Organization of a new political party to back isolationist congressional and state candidates in next year's crucial elections, as a prelude to a presidential ticket in 1944, headed by Lindbergh and Wheeler.

President Roosevelt was originally considered for an impeachment attack, but this was dropped as likely to boomerang against the America Firsters. It was also decided that such an attack would get nowhere on Capitol Hill because of Democratic control of congress.

Knox was substituted as the victim because he is the most outspoken cabinet exponent of war, has incurred much criticism because of attempts to censor the press, and is bitterly hated by Republican isolationists because he entered the Roosevelt cabinet.

It was the opinion of the America Firsters that these background factors would play powerfully into their hands in enabling them to start an impeachment hullabaloo.

Actually they know there is no chance to impeach Knox. Their real purpose is to get a congressional forum to wage a propaganda offensive against the president's foreign policies; also to push their secret political plans.

The American Party

THESE plans have been under consideration in the inner America First command for some time.

Two of the chief advocates of a new political party, are Lindbergh and Phil LoFollette, former governor of Wisconsin and younger brother of isolationist U. S. Senator Robert M. LaFollette. Phil has already coined a name for the new party—The American Party.

At the secret Washington powwow the group agreed to constitute themselves a "nucleus" to set definite steps in motion to start a new party.

Local America First units will be used as the initial framework, and undercover scouts will be dispatched throughout the country to whip up political activity. Also discussed were plans to bring John L. Lewis actively into the movement.

The proposed anti-war drive among clergymen and the intensified general agitational plan are directly tied up with the political scheme. On the surface, however, there will be no connection.

For the present the inner America First moguls are carefully softpedalling their political ambitions. Their strategy is to organize a powerful body of public sentiment against Roosevelt's foreign policies; then come out in the open next spring with the political party scheme.

Some of the America First masterminds believe this plan opens the way to a possible capture of a large segment of the Republican organization, particularly in the Middle West.

Note:—Anti-isolationist leaders in congress are preparing a bill to require all propaganda organizations, such as America First and Fight For Freedom, to make public their sources of income and expenditures. The measure is described as a "super-Hatch Act."

Jumped the Gun.

EACH YEAR the American Red Cross opens its fund-raising campaign with a ceremony at the White House, featured by a pretty girl pinning a button on the president and presenting him with a membership card.

The president usually responds with a sizeable check. But this year he fooled them.

When lovely young Adelaide Whitehouse, assistant director of Red Cross volunteer services, pinned on the button in order to launch officially the 1941-42 drive, FDR grinned.

"Young lady," he said "I've beaten you to it. I've already sent in a check for my contribution."

Walkie-Talkie.

IT'S NOT being announced, but the army's fanfared "walkie-talkie" portable radio equipment isn't so hot.

Actual field use in this year's rigorous maneuvers and war games have uncovered a number of "bugs" that will require major improvements before the sets are effectively practical under combat conditions.

One of the principal "bugs" is the tall, tubular, aluminum aerial that goes with the pack strapped to the soldier-operator's back. It was found that this aerial constantly caught in brush and low tree branches, seriously interfering with the operation of the equipment often when most needed. In fact, in heavily wooded areas, the "walkie-talkie" proved frequently useless.

The 37-pound sets originally were designed for two-way radio communication within a five-mile range. Mounting a two-foot aerial they proved very efficient in field tests. But the fast-moving motorized infantry and artillery protested the short range, declaring it was inadequate. They demanded a 20-mile radius.

At the same time they insisted that the weight of the equipment remain unchanged. This led to the 10-foot aerial, which experience has demonstrated is impractical. The problem now is to get the desired radius without the inefficient aerial.

Merry-Go-Round.

THE NEXT time you feel like blowing up over the telephone service, keep your shirt on. It may get a lot worse. If the copper shortage continues, long distance calls may even be rationed; that is, restricted to certain hours. Plans are also being considered to convert private lines to four-party lines under certain circumstances. . . . Other city chiefs can take a leaf from smart, hustling Mayor Jesse Pavey of South Bend, Ind., in wangling defense and public works projects. Pavey sees the right officials in Washington, gets a lot of juicy plums for his town—without any fanfare or any expense. . . . In the six years of its existence, the National Youth Administration has given training to approximately 2,000,000 unemployed youngsters.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—Capital talk:

Of all the odd purchases of the United States army, the one that stirs the imagination most is that made recently for a million dollars worth of human blood. Five contracts were let to chemical laboratories, totalling $1,026,250 for purchase of gallons of human plasma. The blood bank is stored against that time, if ever, when it might be needed for blood transfusions.

This doesn't necessarily mean a fighting war reserve of human blood. With 1,500,000 men in the army now, the amount of blood needed for accidents resulting from training activities of a mechanized army and for "normal" illnesses is tremendous.

WASHINGTON got a good spanking the other day for the way it has been entertaining and receiving soldiers on leave. Dr. Frank S. Lloyd, of the Federal Security Agency recreation division, administered the verbal paddling, with such observations as "This is the coldest, snootiest, most upturned nose area in the United States, barring none."

This ties in with a recent personal experience. Falling in with three lads on leave from Fort Eustis, Va., I asked them what about the national capital they disliked most and the answer was immediate and all agreed: "We never have anybody to talk to." Explanation brought out that the boys get pretty weary of being treated like persons apart—or like martyrs.

According to morale officers, a queer bit of vicious racketeering has developed here which has slowed down the District's program for placing visiting soldiers in private homes. A number of the "families" who called and offered to take lads in turned out to be houses of prostitution. Now, every offer has to be investigated before it can be placed on the invitation list. The process has resulted in only comparatively few homes being added each week.

THE president has just rid himself of one of the minor headaches of national defense—the appointment of dollar-a-year men. The law specifically gives the president the authority to appoint the dollar-a-year and WOC (without compensation) aides to the government. There being hundreds of them, the task had become considerable and continuous since so many are called in for specific jobs and remain only a short while.

There was one other drawback. The Democrats said the president was getting in too many Republicans; the Republicans that the president was giving too many jobs to party men in the business field.

The president got a ruling from Attorney General Biddle that it was his prerogative to delegate this appointive power and immediately the president washed his hands of the whole business. Hereafter, the dollar-a-year boys will be named by the national defense division-heads—Donald Nelson, William Knudsen, Sidney Hillman and Leon Henderson.

However, this won't make any difference in the assignment of treasury investigators and FBI men to give the records and affiliations of all such appointees a thorough fine-tooth combing. It's not generally known, but a number of recommended dollar-a-year men have been turned down because of these investigations.

A Farmer's Diary

Wise Doctor

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

AT A CERTAIN Grange refreshment time, my wife and I shared a table for four with another couple who were introduced as "the bride and bridegroom." On the table was a big white cake.

He was a slender, keen-eyed farmer with a firm handshake and a somewhat diffident air that did not conceal his capability. He told me he was farming 160 acres and could ride a tractor as well as any younger man. She was plump and merry, capable and intelligent, up-to-date and a mathematician. I knew this last by the way she cut the cake—into exactly enough pieces to go around.

She not only cut the cake but served it herself — carrying it around the big hall and helping each person present. While she was gone, the new husband said in explanatory tone—

"After my first wife died, things didn't go well with me. For nearly four years I struggled along—then I got tired. Farming didn't have the tang it oughta have—it was hard to get help. I'd about decided to sell out, retire and move to town. I said as much to a doctor friend of mine.

"'Don't do it,' he told me. 'If you quit the farm it'll be the end of you. What you need isn't rest, it's something else. Then he gave me a prescription. Didn't charge me for it either.

"I didn't take him serious at first, but the more I thought it over the more I guessed he might be right. And I'd known this lady who had a farm of her own—and could run it, too—who was in just the same boat I was, for lack of companionship and all. Fact is, we grew up only a few miles apart and our mothers were friends. That was long ago, but still it gave us something to start on. So I got in the habit of going over there to talk things over with her—about farming and all—and we found out we thought the same about lots of things. Two weeks ago we got married, and I've got a new lease on life.

"Today we were huskin' corn together out in the field—actin' foolish, I suppose—and my own grown boy came along and said 'Dad, won't you ever grow up?'

"I'm 65—she isn't so old—but my folks are the kind that don't dissipate or over-eat—they last pretty well. We think, she and I, we can have lots of pleasure yet before we're 80."

At just that moment the wife of his heart came back. Only one piece of cake remained on the plate. She had served him first—now she put this last down before him. "Better eat it and keep it from going to waste," she said. So he did. Yes—both those newlyweds are good mathematicians.

LIFE OF ARMY PARACHUTIST TOUGHER THAN FOOTBALLER'S

(By International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA.—Football players have a life of sweetness and light in comparison with the army's new parachutists, according to a man who has been both.

That's Lieutenant Earl Dittmann, Philadelphia's only parachute officer now stationed at Fort Benning, Ga. He played four bruising years on the grid team of Valley Forge Military Academy—but jumping out of an airplane into space is something different.

"Even the veterans, men who have made 15 or 20 jumps, perspire like a pitcher of ice-water on their way to a jump," revealed Lieutenant Dittmann, whose battalion of 500 men was the second to complete its qualification jumps.

The parachute officer corrected the misconceptions of some that the chuter simply steps out of the plane, floats gently to earth and lands on his feet—the way it looks in the motion picture.

According to Dittmann, the parachuter starts from the airship with a complicated technique similar to Olympic diving; yanks ropes like a sailor on the way down—and frequently lands on his head or shoulders. Preparing for the bumps takes up most of the novice's time, the Lieutenant disclosed.

Two items in the training regime are: 1. The men stand on the edge of a six-foot platform, facing in, and jump off, rolling over backward as they land. 2. Stand on the floor and dive straight forward, landing on right shoulder and rolling over. Repeat, using the left shoulder.

That goes on every morning, Dittmann says, after an hour of calesthenics. Afterwards, he said, comes a half-hour of jumping out of an imitation plane and tumbling across the gymnasium floor in every which direction. Football isn't that tough, reiterated the parachutist.

THIS FEATURE HAS AN OUTSTANDING RECORD For "NEWS BEATS"

On October 5, Pearson and Allen were the first to report that President Roosevelt had ordered the secret arming of Panamanian vessels and that the Panama government was objecting. NEXT DAY the Panama cabinet passed a ruling forbidding the registration of further American ships if they were armed.

It is significant, in connection with the eventual ousting of President Arnulfo Arias of Panama, that his pro-Nazi leanings were spotted by the Washington Merry-Go-Round as early as January 1, 1941, shortly after he became president. At that time, Pearson and Allen reported, "Panama is now governed by a president who has all the earmarks of leaning toward the Axis and who is holding back on the granting of important emergency landing fields, anti-aircraft and searchlight position on Panamanian territory to the U. S." The column also disclosed intimate details regarding the pro-Nazi advisers around Arias.

One of the outstanding stories written by Pearson and Allen in recent weeks was that of September 27, in which they told how "the greatest tragedy of the year 1941, was the manner in which the British had failed to establish a second front against Hitler." According to subsequent cables from London "Brendan Bracken, minister of information, was nettled by a Pearson and Allen column" and inspired Churchill to counteract the report in the House of Commons. Shortly thereafter the question of a second front against Hitler became one of the most debated topics in the House of Commons and there are current reports that Lord Beaverbrook will resign over this issue.

In connection with the revolutionary attempt in Argentina on September 23 and also in connection with the president's Navy Day disclosures of Nazi penetrations in South America, it is interesting to note that as early as April 10, 1939, The Merry-Go-Round gave intimate and detailed disclosures of Nazi intrigue in Argentina centered around the airdromes and the vital oil fields in Patagonia. In fact, for several months The Merry-Go-Round had given inside disclosures regarding Nazi activities, many of them denied by the Argentine embassy and the state department.

African Coast Bases for Bombers Are Being Built to Check Hitler

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—The public doesn't know it, though Nazi agents do, but the United States is very quietly and efficiently building up a series of strategic bases along the coast of Africa to guard against a Nazi air putsch from Dakar to South America.

First of these bases will be airdromes at Freetown, in the British colony of Sierra Leone, now being developed by Pan American Airways on the airplane ferrying route to Egypt.

Second will be an important airdrome in Liberia, the Afro-American colony just south of Freetown. Equally important will be a submarine base in Liberia.

The Liberian airdrome is now being built in cooperation with the Firestone Rubber company, which some years ago decided to free itself of the Dutch-British rubber cartel by setting up extensive plantations in Liberia.

Purpose of these bases is to take the place of the U. S. fleet in the South Atlantic. Long ago, U. S. naval strategists figured they could reduce materially the number of U. S. warships around Hawaii and California, if there were enough big bombing planes on the Pacific island bases to patrol the Pacific.

So now U. S. bombing planes operating from the African coast will do the same thing for the South Atlantic in order to guard against Nazi moves from Vichy-dominated Dakar.

The problem of shutting off a Nazi blitz in the South Atlantic is much harder than in the Pacific, due to one factor: distances in the Atlantic are about one-third less than those in the Pacific.

However, these bases at Freetown and Liberia are the best bet the United States has, for long ago the army and navy vetoed a plan to send a force to take Dakar. Strategists figured this would require at least 200,000 men—unless Roosevelt wanted to risk a Narvik.

Note—It should always be remembered that Axis war moves are like a game of chess. Part of Hitler's strategy is to keep the United States enough worried about the Atlantic to station several powerful chessmen (ships) in the Atlantic, thus giving Japan a freer hand in the Pacific. However, we have kept such a large naval force in the Pacific that Japan is worried. This was one topic reported to have been discussed by Hitler and Mussolini last week—how to scare the United States more in the Atlantic, get more U. S. ships shifted from the Pacific, so keep Japan unworried, make sure she remains in the Axis.

Unfinished Job.

THAT reshuffling of defense agencies and personnel cleared up a lot of dragging underbrush and strengthened some glaring weak spots. The result is certain to be more efficient and more coordinated administration.

But the job is far from finished. And privately the president knows it.

Still untouched is the vital need for a single, forceful, directive head of the whole defense program to give it the high-geared drive and initiative it urgently needs.

How soon the president will get around to naming a leader of this caliber he alone knows. But he does know one is badly needed.

Recently, talking to a close friend, the president complained about the failure of defense chiefs to take the initiative and to exercise the powers they have. He contended they have plenty of authority to act if only they would use it.

"Barney Baruch," he said, "had only half their authority, but he went ahead and did things. He didn't run to Wilson every day to ask what to do. Barney took the lead himself. He ascertained what was needed and got it done. But unless I tell my defense men what to do, it's not done.

"They claim it's because they haven't the authority. That's bosh. They've got all the authority they need. What they lack is initiative. They are excellent men, sincere, able and patriotic. But they are executors and not leaders. Unless they are told specifically what to do, nothing happens."

The friend agreed heartily with the president and then quietly remarked, "What about Bill Doug- advocated assembling all defen agencies, plus army and navy p chasing authorities, within a department, to be known as Department of Supply and by a new cabinet member. choice for this job is Do

On September 21, the Merry-Go-Round gave the inside on Hitler's demands that 250,000 Hungarian troops, 200,000 Rumanians, 50,000 Slovaks and 500,000 Italians support the German army in Russia during the winter. On September 25, four days later, the New York Times carried a copyrighted story from Turkey giving similar details.

On August 27, the Merry-Go-Round revealed that Wendell Willkie would become legal counsel for the motion picture producers in the senate movie investigation. This was confirmed by Willkie himself on September 1.

On September 19, the Merry-Go-Round told in advance how Representative Vinson of the house naval affairs committee would introduce legislation to curb the profits of munitions makers. On October 7, Vinson introduced this bill.

On October 11, ten days before Averell Harriman returned to the United States, Pearson and Allen gave the inside on Harriman's report, told how Harriman was convinced Russia could continue active warfare during the winter, and that Harriman was not optimistic. On October 20, following a conference with the president, Harriman said virtually the same thing to Hyde Park reporters.

Wide Variety Of Silhouettes

Left to right, black crepe sheath formal; green wool jersey; black rayon crepe dress.

By SUSAN BARDEN
International Illustrated News Writer

IF YOU really want to impress the folks back home this Christmas, your clothes should have that 1941 fashion-wise look. Women are particularly fortunate this season because styles give a wide variety of silhouettes from which to choose the best figure flatterer.

So whether it's to be a long torso, sweater type blouse with the new dropped shoulder line, or a tapering silhouette with concentrated front fullness, or a column slim evening dress that has a rib-hugging basque waistline—remember that you can be extravagant with ideas and thrifly with money, just by getting your hands on some modern sewing machine equipment and stitching your way to constant fashion successes.

This year there are exciting new fabrics, wool-rayon jerseys, brilliantly colored rayon crepes and spun rayons that you can buy at bargain prices. Even if your talent up to this point consists of stitching a straight seam, go straight to the sewing center in your locality and let them show you how easy it is to achieve professional looking dressmaker finishes in an afternoon or two.

Pine Green for Traveling

You'll make a fine first showing in a comfortably chic traveling costume of pine green jersey, and the family will be proud to see you. The outfit shown in one of the above pictures is a perfect traveling costume. It is a two-piece, hip-sluring sweater-type blouse and pleated skirt. There's an eye catching tapered notched collar and revers that top the blouse with its three-quarter length sleeves, posed below smartly new drooped shoulders. The skirt has stitched down box pleats which make it as sleek and flattering as can be, both for slim and plump figures. Wool jersey is used, and it is a good choice because it discourages wrinkles.

The next costume, very appropriate for Christmas dinner, is made of black rayon crepe. It is a coat dress silhouette with a quartette of jewelled buttons to brighten the front closing. You can introduce a dramatic touch to the V-shaped notched collar neckline by tucking in a brightly patterned ascot scarf.

The climax of the holiday is the evening dress you'll wear for the gala night festivities. You can look as glamorous as a movie star if you make a black crepe sheath with heart-shaped decolletage below wide shoulder straps, and a saucy waistline peplum of black starched lace, like the one in the photograph. The peplum which juts out sharply from a long torso bodice, is full and evenly gathered to the edge of the bodice with the aid of the gathering foot attachment on modern sewing machines.

Mansfield Woman Wins National Contest Award

National recognition comes to a local resident today with the announcement that Mrs. J. W. Leistensnider, 87 Greenwood avenue, has captured one of the coveted prizes in the final judging of the Fifth Annual Nation-Wide Crochet Contest. Competing against more than 400,000 contestants, from every state in the country, the local needlewoman received the first award in the baby division of the contest. Her crochet was selected for one of the national prizes and honors by a board of prominent needlework experts from entries representing the best needlework talent in the United States, all entries having qualified for the final judging by winning first prizes for crochet in state, county and local fairs during 1941.

Top national honors were divided this year when the 16 judges reached a tie-decision and conferred the title of National Crochet Co-Champion on Mrs. Theresa Blum of Los Angeles, California, and Mrs. H. R. Campfield, of Woodside (Queens), New York. The two national winners will receive duplicate Grand National Awards of $250.00. Both Grand Prize winning pieces were entered in the tablecloth division.

A beautifully executed tablecloth also won honors in the highly contested "For Men Only" classification. First prize in this Special Class went to Edward Frank Snead of 2804 Grand avenue, Bronx, New York. Joyce Haines, of 311 S. 42nd street, Louisville, Kentucky, was named Junior Champion. Miss Haines' entry was a simple scarf of modest size, executed skillfully and precisely in an openwork, lacy pattern.

Arriving in New York City today, the two co-champions, the men's champion and little Miss Haines will be presented with their titles and cash awards this afternoon at a press reception to be held in their honor in the Grand Ballroom of the Henry Hudson hotel (headquarters of the American Woman's association) at 353 W. 37th street. The presentation of awards will formally open a week's exhibition of more than 4,000 prize-winning pieces of crochet which were included in the final judging of the contest.

High School Boy Seeks "Freedom"

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'm a high school boy and have been going "steady" with a girl for almost a year. I'd like to break off with her in a way that would not hurt her and yet would be effective. She is a very nice girl and I still like her a lot, but feel that I want to "play the field" again. She likes me a lot and has no idea how I feel about her.—J.

If the girl likes you, there really isn't any painless way of making a decided break in your friendly relations without hurting her feelings. The best method is to see less of her. If you've been in the habit of seeing her two or three times a week, taper off to once a week or ten days. Take out some other girl to dances and football games.

There is really no reason why anyone should keep on with a friendship that is beginning to become a burden.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My boy friend tells me he loves me, and I love him just as much. He has given me his fraternity pin to wear and he told me he would give me an engagement ring later on. He is 21 and I am 19. He has a fairly good job, and I also am employed.

He lives in another state so we don't see one another as much as we'd like to. Also, he is taking care of his father and mother. As they are both getting older it would be almost impossible for him to leave them.

I am willing that they live with us after we are married. They are very lovely and seem to like me. I think a great deal of them. They are the kind who don't interfere, so I'm sure everything would turn out all right.

Do you think such a marriage would work out? We will both be waiting for your answer.

E. and C.

So many girls confronted with a situation similar to yours go around hunting for a chip to balance on their shoulders before making a fair trial of living with a husband's parents. You're going about this in the right way by not looking for trouble in advance. Good luck to you.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'm 21 years old and in love with a young man who is 24. We went together for five years. Like all lovers we had our quarrels and even became engaged. He soon broke that up and I returned his ring.

Then he was drafted. As we were not on speaking terms he went without saying a word and my friends told me he was going out with other girls. He wrote me letters telling me how much he loves me, and wants to marry me. He sent pictures and said he would be home for two weeks. When he came home, he paid me a call for half an hour, and left with a promise of seeing me next day. But that was two weeks ago and I haven't heard or seen him since.

Please tell me what to do. I love him very much.

Waiting.

The life of a young draftee at the present time is not unlike the young man on the flying trapeze. Everything is so new, exciting and utterly unlike past experiences that he often says things for which he cannot be held accountable.

When he was in civilian life you quarreled a good deal, split up made up, and didn't speak. Better wait until his mind is better adjusted to his new surroundings before taking him too seriously.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"Okay!" Harry Underwood said resignedly. "I'll keep my trap shut." But before the men could lift the stretcher on which the big man lay, my father spoke quickly, apologetically.

"Sorry, Miss Whitlock, but will it be possible to put a question to him, and get his answer, before he is taken upstairs?"

She hesitated only the fraction of an instant, but enough, I noted, to get her hesitancy registered.

"Yes, one will not hurt him," she said.

"Are these men in any danger?" my father asked quickly. "I mean, will they need the nurse's attention before the surgeon gets here?"

Before he answered, Harry looked at me.

"How about it, Lady Fair?" he asked. "Was that bird with the shattered ankle losing much blood?"

Nurse Is Anxious.

"Very little," I returned laconically, "and he appeared very strong."

"Then they'll do," Mr. Underwood gave his verdict with emphasis. "The knock I gave the big one was scientific. I'm proud of it. He won't suffer any serious injury, and he's just as well off sleeping it off in Lil's jam closet as anywhere else."

The nurse had been watching the big man's face, and she struck in summarily.

"Is that all the questions you wish to ask?"

"That is all," my father replied, and only the formality of his tone told me that he did not quite relish the imperiousness of the nurse.

"Then," Miss Whitlock said, "we'll get this man upstairs as soon as possible."

Carried on Stretcher.

She directed the men in carrying the stretcher, and kept a watchful and militant eye on them as they maneuvered it up the winding basement stairs, along the first floor corridor, and then up the comparatively easy ascent of the broad stairway to the second floor.

Lillian kept close at her side, and my father waited only to give parting instructions to the heavily armed man left on guard in the basement.

"You'll be alone here less than five minutes," he said, "and it's a certainty you won't have any reason for action. When the other men come back here, as they will almost immediately arrange your watches so two men will be on guard all the time."

The man saluted, and my father put a supporting hand under my elbow.

"We'll just go on up, Daughter," he said quietly, and did not speak again until we were outside the door of Harry's room.

"I don't know what you've been doing, my darling," he said, "and you probably would be court-martialed and shot a dawn for disobedience of orders. But from what I gathered, you probably saved Harry's life, and I'm proud of you."

He had no opportunity to say anything more, for Miss Whitlock's voice sounded in dismissal of the guards who had carried the stretcher upstairs and deposited the injured man upon the bed.

The men filed out and my father gave them a quick, commending "Good work, men!" adding, "Joe downstairs has all instructions. Go back now to the basement."

Wants Surgeon in a Hurry.

They saluted and quickened their pace, while my father ushered me into the room with a pressure on my arm which seemed to accentuate the praise he had just given me.

"We'll just stand over here, Nurse," he said, "out of your way. Call on us if you wish anything."

"I'll do that," she said, "if I need you."

But she did not speak again to either of us until, with Lillian's aid, she had sponged the blood from her patient's arm and side, put him into pajamas with one sleeve cut almost off, and covered him warmly in the hospital bed Lillian had set up. Then she said briskly:—

"How soon will that surgeon be here?"

HOROSCOPE

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, Nov. 25.

Generally adverse and difficult conditions may be looked for on this day, judging by the lunar transits. Opposition, obstacles and antagonism of open as well as secret and underhand connivance, with elders, superiors as well as strangers should be guarded against. Not only business and money are menaced but purely personal interests, like romance, good name and peace of mind may be threatened.

Those whose birthday it is may need to steel themselves for a year of difficult and distressing situations, meeting these by patience, industry, sound principles and keen insight to the source of the difficulties, which may arise from strange and unexpected places as well as from elders, superiors, employers or also so-called friends.

A child born on this day although having sterling and dependable qualities, with some ingenuity and originality as well as practical skill may have to endure reversals and antagonisms. Its health should receive attention.

Shining Noses Make Girls Angry

By MME. QUI VIVE

It would seem as if the shining nose intends to live its own life, not care a hang how much of a nuisance it makes of itself. Even freckles get up and git sometimes. Fat cells can be starved to death and exercise will batten them down. But the beaming nose goes right on shining, like a good deed in a naughty world. Afflicted young ladies do a good deal of blubbering about it. Well, there are ways of bringing it to time and reason.

The good old powder pad dims the radiance for the time being, then has to be whipped out again, especially in the summer season. It is the opinion of your beauty preacher that the frequent friction of the pad annoys the sebaceous and sweat glands and they riot worse than ever. Again, the powder may be of heavy consistency, with an oily base, and acts as an ally. It is by giving the surface of the feminine nose a conditioning treatment before powdering that helps remedy the condition. And, tiresome though the thoughts of diet may be, there is the important matter of cutting down on fat foods.

The time may come when we'll have special diets for our beauty ills, as we have now for hives and some other skin irritations. It is not just a theory that fat foods make the sebaceous glands kick up a fuss, it is a fact, as many a beauty quester has found out to her satisfaction.

Soap and water must be used freely, twice a day, if the skin is inclined to look buttered. Every particle of the soap must be rinsed away, first with warm water, then with cold. The least bit of suds left on the surface of the skin will produce a shine, powder won't stick. So brush up the face washing technique.

Be sparing in the use of creamy cosmetics; they don't help conditions, though a little may be necessary if the cutaneous coat becomes rough because of exposure to wintry weather. If you find the need of a cream, remove it within half an hour. Don't let it remain on overnight. It has been found that oils are picked up by the pores, stored away.

When the skin is oily, it is wise to remove makeup with a thin oil, then use soap suds.

An occasional dry cleaning is a part of the treatment. Moisten a corner of your wash cloth, pour on a little eau de cologne, go over the flesh lightly. This will not only remove the film, but it will help to clear away blackheads. It is not wise to use any alcoholic lotion immediately after using soap, when the skin is sensitive.

Compresses of ice cold witch hazel will bring a beaming nose to its senses. Place some ice cubes in a saucer, pour in some witch hazel, dip in the gauze and apply to the offending feature. This can be done immediately after the facial tubbing.

Only the dryest, finest, softest powder should be used. It should be fluffed on, not ground in with the pad.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

BY

Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

LEAD TO YOUR PARTNER

IF YOUR partner had bid a suit during the auction, if the opponent at your right nevertheless winds up in a game contract at No trumps, and if you decide to lead your partner's suit, what card are you going to select? Years of experience have caused almost all advanced players to agree on the best formulae to apply, both from the standpoint of what works out best in the mechanics of play, to help set up and run the suit, and from the standpoint of enabling your associate to read your holding.

1. A 8 5 3	9. A 9 3	17. K 10 3
2. K 7 4 3	10. K 7 3	18. A K 5 3
3. Q 6 5 3	11. Q 8 3	19. K Q 7 3
4. 7 5 4 3	12. J 5 3	20. Q J 6 3
5. A Q 4 3	13. A Q 3	21. J 10 6 3
6. K J 5 3	14. A J 3	22. 8 4 3
7. A 10 6 3	15. K J 3	23. K 3
8. K 10 5 3	16. A 10 3	24. 8 3

There are really nine different classifications. First comes a lead of your fourth-best, whenever your hand does not contain touching honors, such as the 3 from Nos. 1 to 8, inclusive. Second comes the bottom card from three to a single honor, so as to preserve your honor to knock off an expected stopper in the declarer's hand, as with Nos. 9 to 12. Third is the middle card of a trebleton containing non-touching honors, so that if your higher honor knocks off one of the declarer's, you have a small one to lead to your partner and do not block the run of his suit, as with Nos. 13 to 17.

Fourth is the lead of an honor from touching honors, such as the K from 18 or the top honor from 19 to 21 inclusive, instead of your fourth-best. Fifth comes the same lead of an honor from touchers if the same kind of holding is only three cards in length. Sixth is the lead of your top card from three cards lower than honor rank, as in 22. Seventh is the lead of your honor from a singly guarded one, as in 23. Eighth is the top of a worthless doubleton, as in 24. Ninth, of course, is a singleton, regardless of what it be.

There is an important exception to all of the leads of low cards. That is when the opponent at your left had shown a probable stopper during the bidding. Suppose, for instance, that South bid 1-No Trump, North 2-Clubs, your partner in the East 2-Diamonds, South 2-Hearts and North 3-No Trumps. North showed an expected diamond stopper. Now your lead should be the highest of your partner's suit, regardless of your holding in it, if you decide to lead it and try to help him set it up to run it.

Result of Self Expression Is Felt at School

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

The American epidemic of "self-expression" at home is being felt at school, especially in the junior and senior high schools. Let those who doubt this talk to teachers who have been in service for ten or fifteen years.

Within the last few years I have spoken before a good many hundred junior and senior high school assemblies throughout the United States. I have been impressed with the length of time it takes the average group of students to quiet down after the principal rises to speak to them.

Moreover, within the classroom, study hall and library, self-control by students is, on the whole, woefully lacking. It is a matter not so much of rowdyism as it is of disregard for the rights of other students and disrespect of the teacher.

Learning Self-Control.

I believe that too many children are failing to learn wholesome self-control at home and at school.

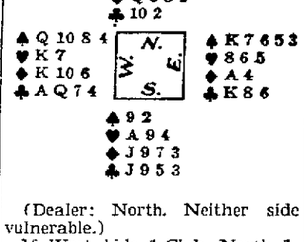
Now I'm for freedom at home and school which permits freedom to all concerned. Fortunate the child at home who is allowed to do as he pleases so long as he is safe and does not infringe upon the rights of others. Wonderful if from early childhood he talks freely and expresses himself without constant fear of ridicule. Pathetic, however, if he does not learn to wait his reasonable turn to speak and learn to listen while other speak.

I'm for freedom at school, freedom in which each child can participate and enjoy achievement, in which he can speak without fear of being laughed at or of undue interruption. But I'm not for the freedom which exercises him in hindering the freedom of others at school. I'm not for freedom which practices him in talking or wisecracking while any other person is speaking to be heard by the entire group.

A well-disciplined child or adult has learned to keep silent and pay due attention and respect to another person speaking.

A selected list of books on personality and mental health may be had, without cost, by writing me at 235 East 45th Street, New York City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp.

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

If West bids 1-Club, North 1-Heart, East 1-Spade, South 2-Hearts, West 2-Spades and North 3-Hearts on this deal, what should East then do?

Apples Add Vitamins and Pep to Menus

By BETSY NEWMAN

"An apple a day keeps the doctor away," so they've been saying for lo, these many years. Apples are tops even if you don't altogether believe the old adage. They're usually quite inexpensive too, so we'll use them in various ways to add vitamins, minerals, and pep to our menus.

Today's Menu.

Link Sausage and Hominy Omelet
Fried Apples
Riced Potatoes
Cabbage Salad
Molasses Cake Coffee or Tea

Link Sausage and Hominy Omelet

One lb. pork sausage links, 2 tbsps. water, 1 No. 2½ can hominy, 1 tsp. salt, ⅛ tsp. pepper, 3 eggs, 6 tsps. milk.

Put sausage links in cold skillet, add water cover and cook until water is evaporated. Remove cover, increase heat and brown sausages, then remove from skillet. Pour off all but 3 tablespoons of fat, add well-drained hominy and seasonings and heat thoroughly; add beaten eggs and milk, and cook only until eggs are set. Turn onto chop plate and arrange sausage links over top.

Fried Apples.

Four apples, 3 tbsps. bacon fat, ½ to 1 cup boiling water, ¼ to ½ cup sugar, few grains of salt.

Wash, quarter and core apples, cut in slices. Put bacon fat into skillet and heat, add apples and cook over low heat from 3 to 5 minutes, until light brown, stirring as a portion of the apples brown to allow others to brown. Add sufficient boiling water to cover bottom of pan, sprinkle with sugar (the amount depending upon the sourness of the apples), and add salt, cover and cook about 10 minutes longer.

Molasses Cake.

One cup sugar, ½ cup molasses, ½ cup lard, 1 scant cup hot water, 2 eggs, ½ tsp. salt, 1 tsp. ground cinnamon, 1 tsp. ground cloves, 2 tsps. baking soda 2½ cups flour.

Cream lard, add sugar gradually and cream well, then add molasses, then well beaten eggs, blending all together very thoroughly. Sift flour, sift again with spices, salt and baking soda, and add alternately with hot water, stirring until smooth. Bake in 350 degree in layers and front with boiled or caramel frosting.

This Home-Mixed Cough Relief Is Hard To Beat

Very Easy to Make. No Cooking. Saves Big Money.

No matter what you've been using for coughs due to colds, you'll be the first to admit that this surprising relief, mixed in your own kitchen, can't be surpassed, for real results.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking is needed—a child could do it.

Then put 2½ ounces of Pinex (obtained from any druggist) into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint of really amazing cough relief—about four times as much for your money. Tastes fine—children love it—and it never spoils.

You can feel this home mixture taking right hold of a cough. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Eases soreness and difficult breathing, and lets you sleep. Once tried, you'll swear by it.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, a most reliable soothing agent for throat and bronchial membranes. Just try it, and if not satisfied, your money will be refunded.

CHAPTER XXX

In his emotional stress after seeing ranchers and others pledge an endowment fund for his university, Dr. K. T. Palmer walked quietly off the platform. His fine head was bowed almost as in reverence. He moved out one of the gates of the amphitheater and he had walked half way down the slope toward the Administration building when he heard footsteps running behind him. He turned to see Bettina Carlson coming, so he waited.

"Kenyon!" she cried, softly, as she came nearer.

He could not answer for a moment.

"I know how you must feel," she continued. "It's all so fine in every way! I had to come to you, Kenyon. To say how proud I am of you. And for you."

They fell into step together, walking. She had taken his elbow.

"It is not I who deserve congratulations or praise," he managed. "The university, Bettina, is—"

"But you do! You are the university! Don't you realize that?"

"I? I am the university?"

"Yes! People say so. No one has ever come here with a constructive program. No former executive has done anything but coast along. Something in you has fired these Arizona people. They have taken you to their hearts. Haven't they just demonstrated as much?"

He considered that. Then he answered her in an awed sort of whisper. "I suppose it is so. I hadn't looked at it that way. It means — it means a tremendous new responsibility for me, doesn't it? Yes! If there is a huge new fund, money for education in these troubled times throughout the world — goodness, Bettina! Here we can begin to build something transcendent!"

"Of course you can!"

"You must advise me further. When we wrote the magazine article together, remember it was really you, Bettina, who crystallized my thinking. You could clarify what I felt to be essentially sound but couldn't boil down. You must have observed how I drew on that article today. I used not only its ideas and idealism, but much of its phraseology, too. You and I together were speaking there!"

She smiled her thanks. "No. Of course not. You were inspired. You felt deeply what you had to say; that's all!"

He looked down at her. Looked straight into her eyes. His own fine blue eyes were misty now. He didn't trust himself to say any more. Something had happened to him; something inside. It was different from the grandeur felt at the generosity of friends in the amphitheater a while ago. It was even more grand; in fact it was overwhelming.

Polly McMurray saw her brother flee from the amphitheater after making his impassioned speech for Joy, and she knew he was in a panic of self-consciousness and stage fright. She saw Joy get up to run after him. Applause and cheering were ringing over the amphitheater. Polly sat there a moment, wide eyed.

"Ward is right!" she suddenly murmured, to herself really, but close enough to Ken Palmer for him to hear her. "What he said about Joy having it is right! I—I can end the contest right now!"

And so she too jumped to her feet and ran to the rostrum.

She was tripping up the stairs before Ken quite realized what she had done, what she had said.

"No!" he shouted. Then he too was on his feet, running.

Polly got to the microphone first. She all but snatched the stand from the hands of Leona Donaldson, chairman of this mass meeting, but Leona offered no protest.

"Ladies and Gentlemen!" Polly began, frenziedly. "I want to say—"

"Hold it!" A man's voice shouted that, and it also was amplified commandingly by the loud speakers. He had grasped the microphone stand too.

The quick little action drama, plus their shouted words, instantly commanded attention from the audience again. A hush settled over the multitude.

But Polly turned to the young man beside her.

"Ken—don't! I want to make a speech myself, can't you see? This is the moment to switch my votes to Joy. She deserves it. She—"

"Sit down!" he ordered, although there was no empty chair in sight. "I can't let you do this! FRIENDS OF THE UNIVERSITY, you have just heard Ward McMurray place a name in nomination, but I—"

"Ken!"

"Hush, Polly! . . . But I have ten to say that another Frontier girl—"

Neither he nor Polly realized that a microphone picks up all sounds, the low tones as well as the small, the private and the public. Literally 10,000 people were listening in on them!

"Ken, what are you going to do?"

"I'm going to make a speech, sweetheart! Can't you see?" He was desperately intent. "LADIES AND GENTLEMEN, I wish to nominate—"

"What did you call me? Ken!"

"Hunh?" He interrupted himself to stare at her a second. Her gorgeous brown eyes had gone wider than ever. But he swallowed determinedly and plunged on. "LADIES AND GENTLEMEN, I wish to nominate Miss Polly McMurray for fiesta queen. While there are many worthy of this honor, there is only one girl in all the university who is beautiful enough and sweet enough—"

"Ken! Ken Palmer!" Polly shrieked that, and it shrieked all over the multitude.

People in the far back rows were beginning to stand now, electrified by the strange drama before them. This stage act was real! Nothing of make believe at all, and the people realized it.

"—sweet enough to be queen of La Fiesta del Sol! She looks like a perfection of all that we have idealized in senoritas from Spain and old Mexico. She is a native of the borderland herself, a girl brought up in the tradition of—"

"Ken, stop it! Whatever are you saying? I was here to switch all my support to Joy because Ward wants her to—"

"I won't stop!" He glared at her. "FRIENDS, you must reason this matter out carefully and—"

Polly had unconsciously grabbed his arms, straddling the microphone with her own to do so. She was barely shoulder high to him but she shook him hard now to command his attention.

"But Ken, whyever are you doing this? . . . Why? . . . You don't—"

"Because I love you, Polly! I want to do it. I've got to! . . . you people of Arizona must reason this matter out for yourselves before the vote is—"

"O-o-o-oh, Ken! Do you know what you said?"

He didn't hear that. "—the vote is cast this day. Polly and her family have done more for Frontier than any other group of people. This fiesta is an Arizona event which—"

"Ken, do you? You said you loved me!"

She cried that almost frantically at him, and of course at all the multitude as well.

He was like a blond young god standing here, head erect on fine shoulders. Together they were silhouetted against the blue of the Arizona sky which canopied this university theater. In the audience was only the slightest gasping-murmuring noise, for the crowd now was electrified with interest. It was as if the throng sat there poised to break instantly into cheering but hesitated lest it miss something of what was being said and done. Away up the slope of Shadow Canyon hundreds of people now were standing. Some boys had climbed even to the high top of Ho-Ho-Kam ridge. Others gripped the backs of seats in front of them. Some stood mouth agape, straining to see and hear.

Polly held to Ken's arm with one hand now and gripped the microphone stand with the other. Determinedly she shouted into it, trying to come over his own excited tones.

"NO!" she cried. "LADIES AND—please let me, Ken—GENTLEMEN, I HEREBY TELL YOU THAT I—"

"FRIENDS!" Ken forced in over her. "MISS McMURRAY IS CONFUSED ABOUT—"

"I AM NOT CONFUSED! I—"

"YOU ARE, POLLY! If you will only let me—"

"NO! I WANT—"

"BUT I'VE GOT TO NOMINATE YOU, I TELL YOU! I WANT YOU TO HAVE IT!"

"OH KEN, DO YOU REALLY?"

"SURE I DO! I WANT YOU TO HAVE EVERYTHING GOOD! YOU MUST—"

"O-o-o-o, Ken, WHY! You said it once! Please say it again, Ken! Please say it once more so I can be sure you mean it, and that I'm not dreaming!"

Tension broke somewhere out in the vast audience.

A man laughed. Happily, shrilly.

Then a little undertone wave of excitement swept right across, but it ended in a sudden hush when Ken Palmer shouted into the microphone again. The blond young man seemed quite unaware that the mike and its loud speakers were broadcasting his private words to Polly as well and his utterances for the public.

"Say it once more?" he repeated to Polly. "You mean—that I love you? That I think you are the most wonderful girl who ever lived, Polly? Of course I say it! It's why I am up here now! I want you to be the queen. Oh, Polly, my sweet—" His face showed the stress within him. He spoke very fast. "Haven't you known that I love you? Since that first day when I met you when we collided on the steps! I've wanted to tell you so! I have tried! But I — you could have so many lovers, so many men who want to marry you! I have nothing to offer but myself. I—"

"Oo-o-oh, Ken!" She threw back her head in a wild sort of ecstasy. Then she literally grabbed the microphone stand again and shrilled into the thing. "LADIES AND GENTLEMEN, I resign from the race! It's what I want to say. I will not run for queen. I want Joy to have it. I have everything already! Everything! I was queen last year and I don't want it again. Ken, I want nothing but you, my darling! Don't you know I have loved you all the time? Oo-o-o-oh, Ken!"

The young man had seemed to come awake there.

He was staring at her incredulous, but with a new look for elation beaming on him.

"Oh lord, Polly! We—we're up here! People have heard! We—I—COME ON!"

Abruptly he stooped and picked her up, as if rescuing her from some strange danger.

She sat there in the cradle of his arms, her ebony hair and her trim, shapely legs dangling, and her breath coming in short frenzied gasps of happiness. Then all at once he began to walk.

In a moment he was at the edge of the rostrum and from there he started running down the steps. He continued to run toward an exit still carrying the girl for whom he had publicly proclaimed his love.

"EE-YEOW!" some rancher in the audience shouted.

Then pandemonium broke across the multitude.

ARMY REDUCES VITAL METALS IN EQUIPMENT

Even Brass Belt Buckles Are Among the Items Taken Off List.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—The War department reports that progress is being made in the use of substitutes for vitally needed aluminum, rubber, silk, zinc, copper and nickel.

Critical defense materials have been eliminated or reduced materially in 300 different equipment items purchased by the quartermaster corps and new specifications have been made for nearly that many more to be manufactured to replace present supplies.

Brass and bronze, for example, have been eliminated from belt buckles, rifle scabbard snaps, nuts, bolts and electric fixtures. In 96 other items malleable iron and steel is being used instead.

The drive to conserve nickel supplies resulted in the development of wood, vitrified clay, cast iron, galvanized iron, steel and glass substitutes which receive a special polish to make them suitable for use in tables, electric fixtures, steam kettles and other items.

Zinc content has been reduced in more than other types of equipment, with substitute materials used widely in galvanizing and finishing.

Less vital materials have been substituted for aluminum in 30 instances and cast iron or corrosion-resisting steel replacing that metal in army cooking utensils. Mirror-glass in reflectors is replacing aluminum in table tops and wood and steel in chairs and other furniture.

Glass, porcelain, black iron, lead, steel and galvanized iron are used instead of copper, while fiber glass and "rock cork" take the place of cork. Silk has been eliminated from 17 army supplies and greatly reduced in the other three still requiring it.

THEATERS

Detective Comedy.

William Powell continues his character as the jaunty detective in "Shadow of the Thin Man," playing at the Ohio. Out for a holiday at the races he stumbles across one murder and then another until he gives up watching the ponies and goes to work. Myrna Loy is cast again as the detective's wife and as usual refuses to leave his side despite the fact she is causing embarrassing complications. The plot involves a variety of characters including, big shot gamblers, a betting commissioner, an assortment of newspapermen. A new character is also introduced in the picture, the son of the detective and his wife, played by Dickie Hall. Barry Nelson and Donna Reed are also cast.

Military Musicale.

Heralded as the military musical extravaganza of the year, "You'll Never Get Rich," Fred Astaire's picture at the Madison teams Rita Hayworth with the dancer in a series of new whirlwind steps. Robert Benchley, John Hubbard and Frieda Inescort are also in the picture revolving around a dance director's life in the army after he tries to evade a Broadway belle. Robert Benchley plays the role of a producer who fancies himself a Casanova and who continually keeps Astaire in hot water. Set to the music of Cole Porter the picture features several large production numbers. "Ladies In Retirement," is the second co-attraction.

Skating Spectacle.

"Sun Valley Serenade," continues at the Ritz, with Sonja Henie and John Payne in the romantic leads of a super-skating, skiing festival. Glenn Miller and his orchestra are featured, also Milton Berle and Lynn Bari. "Bad Men of Missouri," the co-attraction, features Dennis Morgan, Jane Wyman and Wayne Morris.

Vienna Adventure.

Deanna Durbin both sings and dances in "Spring Parade," the story of a peasant girl who met adventure in Vienna, showing at the Park. One of her dances is a wild folk number that she dances with Mischa Auer and the other is a Viennese waltz which she executes with her leading man, Robert Cummings. Cummings plays the soldier who crosses the path of the village maid as she works in a Vienna bakery. Henry Stephenson, Walter Catlett and Allyn Joslyn are in the cast. "Tillie the Toiler," the comic strip heroine, is brought to the screen by Kay Harris in the second picture.

Mardi Gras Setting.

Anna Neagle's picture, "Sunny," laid in New Orleans during Mardi Gras time, is the attraction at the Majestic. John Carroll plays opposite the star and the cast includes Ray Bolger, the Hartmans, and Helen Westley. Lucille Fairbanks in "Passage From Hongkong," is the co-feature.

These CIO Officers Re-Elected At Convention

Here are seven of the eight general officers of the Congress of Industrial Organization re-elected by the delegates in convention in Detroit. They are, left to right, Vice President Joseph Curran of San Francisco, Maritime Workers' president, Vice President Reid Robinson of Denver, Colo., Mine and Smelter Workers' president, Vice President Frank Rosenblum of New York, acting head of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of which OPM's Sidney Hillman is president, President Philip Murray of Pittsburgh, Pa.; Vice President Emil Rieve of New York, Textile Workers' president; Vice President R. J. Thomas of Detroit, United Automobile Workers' president, and Secretary James B. Carey of New York. Vice President Sherman F. Dalrymple of Akron, O., United Rubber Workers' president, is not in the picture.

President Murray was re-elected without opposition.

RADIO ON CHURCH WAVE

BLUFFTON, Ind. —(U P)— The proceedings of a funeral in a Bluffton church were interrupted when the loudspeaker system suddenly swung into a staccato police call. Radio technicians explained that a "harmonic"—a jump of a broadcast from its sending wave to another wavelength—was responsible for the incident. A police call had "jumped" to the church public address system.

LEGISLATORS LEAD

COLUMBUS —(U P)— When the 1942 American Bowling Congress opens here a year hence, the No. 1 team in the tournament will be composed of members of the Ohio general assembly. The five-man team will be led by Lieut.-Gov. Paul M. Herbert, who was instrumental in bringing the event here, and two Democratic and two Republican legislators.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Tales From Times Square.

Maybe it didn't happen, but anyway critic George Jean Nathan visited a burlesque show the other night and was exceedingly ruffled by the crowd encouraging a particularly bad stripper.

"Take it off! Take it off!" the audience yelled.

Finally George could stand it no longer.

"Take her off!" he shouted.

Over at the Ruban Bleu an actor was telling about the devil of a time actress Mildred Natwick, now appearing in "Blithe Spirit," had with her name when she was taking some courses at Columbia university.

One day her professor addressed her as "Miss Watnick."

"Not Watnick," corrected Mildred, "Nitwack!"

Eddy Duchin forwards the one about the stutterer who claimed he was taking lessons which were curing him.

"I-I-I c-c-can s-s-say 'All Gaul is divided into three parts' p-perfectly," he glowed, "b-but I c-c-can n-n-never sl-slip it into a conversation."

At Fefe's Monte Carlo a damsel was picqued because of the attention a beautifully proportioned rival was getting.

"What," she asked, "has that girl got that I haven't got?"

"Nothing," Marty May assured her, "only it's distributed better."

A couple of cafe society boys were lolling over their drinks at the Stork club.

"You know," exclaimed one, "I feel like a new man."

"Goodness," asked the other, "anyone I know?"

* * *

Eve Ortega, the singer, says she overheard a mare warning its young filly about the perils of the big city and particularly against those handsome police mounts.

"G'wan," scoffed the filly, "they couldn't catch a colt!"

Hildegarde tells of the quickie producer in Hollywood who needed a police dog for a canine opus. He sent out a casting call and an agent showed up with a hungry-looking mutt.

"You can have him for two hundred a week," the agent said. "After all the pooch ain't tin."

"Yeah?" snapped the producer, pointing to the mutt, "and he ain't Rin-Tin-Tin either."

It was Xavier Cugat who recalled the legend of the time Joe Frisco was the entertainer at a coast cafe on an evening when Lawrence Tibbett was present. Tibbett was persuaded to sing, and as he was in the midst of "Without a Song," Frisco came in, late.

"Th-that g-guy's g-good," he whispered to the proprietor, "you oughta sign him."

"Are you kidding?" he was asked. "That's Lawrence Tibbett."

"S-s-s-so w-what?" asked Frisco, "we can change his n-name."

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD — Christmas is just around the corner.

Correction. Christmas WAS just around the corner.

In Hollywood, it's all over but the last-minute rush and the hangover. Practically speaking, that is. Our town will put on a wonderful show from now on in, just as if it weren't all in the bag, and the cheer will mount pretty steadily, to wind up with a grand flourish the same as in your town.

But Christmas begins in Hollywood somewhere around the first of August—in the studio still rooms.

That's when little girlies who will be stars—maybe—five years from now first begin reporting to the photographers for Christmas art. They put on Santa Claus suits—preferably of sheer gauze or cellophane—and pose under bauble-laden Christmas trees.

They tug at papier-mache Yule logs in drifts of phoney snow—wiping off the perspiration between shots. They typify the Spirit of St. Nick and such for the clicking lenses, thus qualifying as actresses. It takes acting ability to look Christmasy in August.

St. Nick gets a rest for a while then, while Hollywood passes through the first throes of the football season. But not for long. Pretty soon, at all the studios, attractive misses establish themselves at little tables to take orders for Christmas cards—Motion Picture Relief Fund cards. There are fairly fancy ones along with penny postcards stating that money ordinarily spent to wow one's friends has been turned over to the fund. The attractive misses do a good trade—even under a hot October-November sun.

The benefits, long planned, now are getting under way. Stars, near-stars, would-be stars have an opportunity to sign up for appearances here, there and everywhere about town. Bob Hope, Mickey Rooney, Judy Garland, Shirley Temple, Jane Withers, Gene Autry—these won't have to worry about what to do with their spare time now.

Even as stars put the final stitches on their personal homemade gifts—you ought to see Hedy Lamarr's petit-point door-stoppers!—and worry about what to give their Aunt Matilda, the studio sales forces ponder the annual problem of what to give you for Christmas—in the theaters.

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson's column was not available for publication today. It will appear as usual tomorrow.

Sometimes they have a "natural," like the year Metro made "A Christmas Carol." Paramount has one for this season — the color cartoon "Mr. Bug Goes to Town." Disney wants to get "Dumbo" into general release that week, too, but Kay Kyser in "Playmates" has the RKO call.

The days before Christmas are no showman's heaven; they're bad; but the holiday season is good in toto. You get choice film fodder if the studios can so work it. Warner Bros. is making "The Night Before Christmas," but they're changing the title. You'll probably see "The Man Who Came To Dinner" on the night before Christmas.

Just around the corner? Christmas was here the day after Thanksgiving.

In the studio still rooms they're getting ready for Easter!

PREDICT DROP IN '42 SALES TAX REVENUES

G. O. P. Leaders Say Decrease Precludes Possibility of Surplus Division.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — Administration spokesmen asserted today an anticipated $7,000,000 to $12,000,000 drop in 1942 sales tax collections virtually precluded any possibility of a special legislative session to distribute present surpluses to major cities as requested by Mayor Frank J. Lausche of Cleveland.

Lausche, a Democrat, mentioned as possible gubernatorial timber, said invitations for a Cleveland meeting Thursday to discuss further distributions have been accepted by Mayor George Harter of Akron and Finance Director Earl Hagerman of Dayton. Support of other financially pinched towns will be sought, he added.

In a letter to Gov. John W. Bricker, Lausche contended the state's surplus at year end would be nearer $25,000,000 than the $6,000,000 estimated by the Republican administration and urged an immediate special session.

Herbert Defenbacher, state finance director, indicated meanwhile that skidding sales tax collections next year might even force downward revision of salary increases aggregating $200,000 annually given state workers during the past six months.

He said the amount of 1942 collections in Ohio would depend on whether the federal government adopts an extreme tax program or follows a modified policy.

He estimated a moderate federal program would pare state collections from the $62,000,000 total for 1940 to about $55,000,000, while an "all out" policy might cut it to $50,000,000.

Salary increases recently given hundreds of low-income bracket workers in various departments including highway, taxation, welfare and industrial relations, were effected—save in one instance—without the departments exceeding their 1941 appropriations.

The exception was in the highway department where officials said 168 engineers were raised in an effort to prevent their taking to defense industry jobs.

Highway department officials reported spending $19,090 less for administration during the first 10 months of 1941 than for the corresponding 1940 period and estimated a balance of $13,000 for the year. A balance of $20,000 was looked for in the welfare department where salary increases for about 200 employes have advanced to $720,000 the November and December payroll for the department and 23 institutions.

PHONE STRIKE THREAT ENDS

A. T. & T. and Workers Reach Settlement In Week-Old Labor Dispute.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—The threat of a nationwide strike of 15,000 long-distance telephone operators and maintenance workers was ended today by an agreement between the American Telegraph and Telephone company and the Federation of Long Line Telephone Workers, an independent union, calling for wage increases totaling $3,000,000.

Dr. John R. Steelman, chief of the U. S. conciliation service, who came to New York from Washington to aid in the negotiations, announced the settlement.

Under the agreement, a wage adjustment board and a wage differential board will be set up to work out points still at issue. The adjustment board will study the granting of wages to 1,500 members of the union in the states of Wisconsin, Illinois, Maryland, West Virginia, Virginia, Minnesota, Nebraska, and Iowa, and in the city of Cincinnati, who will not share in the increases agreed upon today.

The granted wage increases will be retroactive to Aug. 31 in New York City, where there are 5,000 workers, and in the Rocky Mountain states. In other states, it will be retroactive to Oct. 19. The contract will run for one year and go into effect as soon as the rank-and-file members of the union ratify it. Approval of the union members, which was considered certain, will take an estimated six weeks.

LONG ILLNESS ENDS IN DEATH

Mrs. Virginia Wuthrich, 22, Dies At General Hospital.

Mrs. Virginia A. Winters Wuthrich, 22, of 262 Park avenue east, died yesterday at General hospital after a lingering illness.

Born in Columbus, Jan. 31, 1919, she had spent her lifetime in this vicinity, and was a member of the Jehovah's Witnesses.

She is survived by her husband, Philip; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Winters; and two sisters, Murel and Margarette, all of Mansfield.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p. m. Tuesday in the Finefrock funeral home, with Rev. W. A. Thrutchley, pastor of Jehovah's Witnesses, officiating. Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery.

12,000 PRIZE ANIMALS ENTERED IN CHICAGO LIVESTOCK SHOW

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO—Hungry Europeans might look with envy at the world's finest beef cattle and hogs which were being unloaded today at the Chicago stockyards for the opening of the international livestock exhibition next Saturday.

The record entry of 12,000 prize animals represents the finest purebred cattle, sheep, swine, and horses reared this year by 7,000,000 farm families in North America.

They are to compete for $100,000 in cash prizes before the supreme court of the animal world in the eight day show at the international amphitheater.

All great agricultural nations are represented in the show.

American farmers, with their uncanny know-how, will parade their stock across the tanbark judging ring in the presence of an expected 500,000 spectators.

Frozen steaks and chops from some of these animals may be shipped back to Europe under the food-for-democracy program.

Chief interest in the stock judging centers upon the selection of the world's grand champion steer from among 1,037 entries. The arbiter will be W. L. Carlyle, manager of the Duke of Windsor's Canadian ranch.

Among junior farmers the exposition will be the final court of appeals for 1,500,000 4-H club boys and girls who have competed in hundreds of local contests. Some 2,000 of their champions will attend the 20th 4-H club congress held in conjunction with the show.

Grain and hay farmers, demanding attention for their share in the meat industry, have sent approximately 5,000 samples of their best crops from which will be chosen the wheat, corn, and oat kings of North America.

BODY ARRIVES

Rites For Mansfield Soldier To Be Held Tomorrow.

Funeral services for Pvt. William D. Doty, 25, Mansfield soldier killed in an auto accident Thursday night at Springfield, Mo., will be held tomorrow at 3:30 p. m. at the Wappner funeral home. The youth's body was returned to Mansfield from Missouri yesterday.

Pvt. Doty was killed not far from his army post at Camp Leonard Wood, Mo. He had been called home two weeks ago when the condition of his father, William H. Doty, Olivesburg road, who had been ill for several weeks, had become critical.

Rev. Grover E. Swoyer, pastor of the First Lutheran church, will officiate at funeral services assisted by officers of Venus lodge, No. 152, F. & A. M. Officers of the lodge will meet at the Masonic temple today at 7:30 p. m. to complete arrangements for the service. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

Laff-a-Day

"There's a three-alarm fire around the corner and I'm sitting here and you want to know if this is the real thing!"

A sailor from the Mansfield area, R. N. Penrose of New Haven, off duty last night in Pittsburgh, made an unsuccessful attempt to save the life of an unidentified man who dropped from a bridge into the Monongahela river. The man, wearing a coat with a Canton, O., store label, was hanging by his hands beneath the bridge when Penrose and a companion approached. As they ran to him to pull him back to safety he let go and dropped into the river, an Associated Press dispatch from Pittsburgh said.

Twenty-two pupils studying commercial law in Lexington high school learned today how a jury trial is conducted in common pleas court. With their teacher, Miss Laverna Kern, they came to Mansfield in a school bus this morning to make up most of the audience for the trial of a damage suit involving a fatal traffic accident last winter on U. S. Route 42 northeast of Mansfield.

Mansfield police were called out last night to spread oil on the troubled waters of the sea of matrimony but weren't too successful. Summoned to a North Diamond street residence, they found a bride of a few hours who sobbed out her story about the groom hitting her over the head after imbibing too much at the wedding feast. The bride packed her clothes and left for a while but she didn't want the groom arrested, police said.

RITES TUESDAY

Mrs. Katherine Kennedy To Be Buried In Mansfield.

Friends here learned today of the death in Cleveland Friday of Mrs. Katherine Hagerty Kennedy, a former resident of Mansfield who moved to Cleveland 20 years ago.

She died unexpectedly following a heart attack at her home, 3902 West 157th street.

Surviving are her husband, Edward; one daughter, Mary Kennedy of Cleveland; and one sister, Mary Hagerty of Mansfield.

The body was taken to the home of George J. Moyer, 32 Bradford street, in Mansfield to remain until funeral services tomorrow at 9:30 a. m. in St. Peter's Catholic church.

Burial will be in the Mansfield Catholic cemetery.

BABY SUCCUMBS

Infant Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Mizer Dies.

Vickey Sue Mizer, three-day-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Mizer, Bahl avenue, East Mansfield, died yesterday in General hospital.

She is survived by her parents and grandparents. Funeral services were to be held at 4 p. m. today in the Finefrock funeral home with burial in Mansfield cemetery.

FORMER MAIL CARRIER DIES

Frank G. Schnittke, 46, Succumbs At Home In Loudonville.

LOUDONVILLE — Frank G. Schnittke, 46, retired mail carrier, died at his home here Sunday morning. He had been a mail carrier for 23 years, retiring last year.

Mr. Schnittke was born on Nov. 2, 1895 and spent the greater part of his life in Loudonville. Survivores are his son, Carl Schnittke, Loudonville; a sister, Mrs. Beda Zellers, Glenmont; and three brothers, Herbert of Mansfield, Reinhold of Loudonville, and G. A. Schnittke of Dover.

CRACK TRAIN PILES UP IN MISSISSIPPI

Nine Coaches Leave Tracks, Roll Down Embankment; Broken Rail Blamed.

(By International News Service)

CORINTH, Miss.—Railroad officials reported today that one woman passenger was killed and about 75 other persons injured last night when the Illinois Central railroad's fast passenger train, "The Seminole," was wrecked a mile south of the Corinth station.

Earlier reports that three or more persons had been killed were disproved following a check-up of persons in Corinth's two hospitals, the road announced.

Of those injured, it was belived no more than eight or ten were in serious condition. Most of the injured suffered only cuts and bruises, and a few were treated for shock.

The woman killed was indentified by local authorities as Mrs. Dovie Robertson, 59, of Selmer, Tenn.

Some confusion existed as to the exact number of persons hurt, and the extent of their injuries. All the injured were brought to Corinth's two hospitals, normally able to care for about 40 patients. Due to the over-taxing of the facilities of the hospitals, doctors were unable to say just how many persons were being cared for.

The train, enroute from Florida to Chicago, was wrecked as it was slowing down for a stop at the Corinth station. The engine and three baggage cars remained on the rails, but nine cars tumbled off the tracks, down an embankment and into a field.

Officials of the railroad said apparently the wreck was caused by a broken rail.

The accident occurred at 5:15 p. m. Because it happened only half a mile from the city limits, scores of rescuers reached the scene quickly. It was this fact which was credited for having prevented a more serious loss of life.

A prominent role in the rescue efforts was taken by the approximately 20 members of Corinth's civilian defense corps. They reported they were able to remove all the injured from the overturned cars with little loss of time.

The dining car caught fire after its derailment, apparently from cooking equipment, but so far as was known everyone was removed safely before flames gutted the car.

"The Seminole" had been scheduled to reach Chicago at 7:30 a. m. today.

Ohioan Charges 'Bungling' By War Department

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — Rep. Stephen M. Young, D., Ohio, today suggested a congressional investigation of clothing purchases by the army, charging that some war department officials are "bunglers, saps or grafters."

"I am determined to learn why the war department purchased 20,000,000 handkerchiefs, 13,000,000 ties, 77,000,000 pairs of socks, 16,000,000 pairs of shoes and 12,000,000 pairs of gloves," Young said.

"The records show purchases of $8,000,000 worth of mosquito netting. Other equally glaring examples of bad judgment, crookedness or dumbness can be cited.

"Is it possible that war department officials, without act of congress, are preparing for an A. E. F. of 10,000,000 young men?"

MEET TONIGHT

Farm Institute Officers To Confer At Courthouse.

Farmers' Institute officers from eight Richland county communities will meet at 8 p. m. today in the county agent's office at the courthouse to plan their institutes for the winter season.

County Agent George B. Ganyard said the institutes will get under way in January and they will continue through a two-month period in various sections of the county. It is expected that dates and programs for the meetings will be set up at tonight's session.

INFANT DIES

Son Of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Webb Succumbs At Hospital.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Webb, 547 Woodland avenue, died at General hospital Sunday morning soon after birth.

He is survived by his parents and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Izaak Webb and Mr. and Mrs. Victor Au, all of Mansfield.

Funeral services will be held at 9:30 a. m. Tuesday at the Wappner Funeral home with Rev. L. C. Watters, pastor of the Free Methodist church in charge. Burial will be in Franklin cemetery.

And how, neighbor, did you like the way our Mansfield City News gridders walloped the Galion Jaycees in Mansfield's "home game" at Galion yesterday afternoon?

It's too darn bad that the Mansfield gridders had to go to Galion to play their "home game." But it turned out all right. Some 900 fans saw yesterday's game at Galion, which is about 400 more than have seen the Mansfield club play at home.

I don't know how many would have turned out if the game had been played in Mansfield.

* * *

But I side in with the Mansfield pros in their contention that they should have been permitted to play at home — on the high school gridiron.

Three-fourths of them have played on the high school field—as members of the high school team.

One argument which the school board has raised in opposition to their playing on the high school field is the fact that the pros are too big and heavy and would tear up the turf. Any fan who has seen the high school team play at home this fall knows that the turf has been torn up plenty by the little fellows in Tyger uniforms during the rain and snow and other weather. The pros couldn't have torn it up any more, now that the season is closed.

But the principal contention of the school board has been right along: "We don't want any professional football on our athletic field."

And that's the reason the pros didn't get to play yesterday's game on the high school gridiron.

Oh, you naughty pros. You are accepting money for athletic endeavor. You have been taught through four years of high school how to play football, but you haven't been taught how to accept money for it.

The rest of the student body has been taught to become teachers, lawyers, bookkeepers, and other things. And no objection is raised to their accepting money in their professions.

But, play football for money? You naughty boys. We've taught you how to play football, but that is only part of our physical education program. We've given you big strong muscles, but not in the fingers reaching out for long green folding dough. If you are a banker or a machinist or a clerk or something else it is all right for you to accept a little money for your efforts.

* * *

Football? We'll take your taxes to help keep up the schools. But we won't let you play football on a school field. And that is something not only you, but all the kids who are going to play football for the high school can bear in mind.

GILEAD GRIDDERS TO HAVE BANQUET

MT. GILEAD — The annual football banquet for the Mt. Gilead high school squad will be held at the school auditorium Thursday night, Nov. 27.

A turkey dinner will be served at 6 o'clock. The program will include an address by a member of the Ohio State university football coaching staff.

Service Game Ends Grid Year

Conference Standings Over Nation Listed.

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

NEW YORK—(AP)—Except for the Army-Navy clash at Philadelphia Saturday and some widely spaced games here and there not much is left of the football season except allocating the various teams to the equally various bowls.

Of the four unbeaten powers, Minnesota isn't interested in a bowl invitation because of a Big Ten ruling. Except for that the Gophers, who haven't lost since late in 1939, probably could designate their own Jan. 1 dwelling place.

Texas A. & M. still has two major opponents to play although it clinched the southwest conference flag Saturday when Texas Christian, its only remaining rival, was tied. Duke and Duquesne, their schedules completed, are sitting about in nervous expectation.

Here's row the various conferences shape up with only one big week-end left in the season:

BIG TEN: Minnesota retained its title by submerging Wisconsin, 41 to 6, for its 17th triumph in a row. Michigan and Ohio State, participants in Saturday's 20 to 20 thriller, likewise tied for second.

PACIFIC COAST: Any one of four teams, including Stanford, can become the coast team in the Rose Bowl. That delicate piece of mystery was engineered last Saturday by Oregon when it spilled Washington, 19 to 16. Oregon and Oregon State meet Saturday and if the latter wins it's almost a sure-shot choice for the big bowl.

SOUTHERN: Duke's unblemished record already assures it of a title share while William and Mary's Indians can draw abreast of the Blue Devils this week by defeating North Carolina State, Duke's 56 to 6 victim Saturday.

BIG SIX: Missouri's bowl hungry Tigers smashed Kansas, 46 to 6, Nebraska beat Iowa, 14 to 13, and Oklahoma whipped Marquette, 61 to 14. The two winners meet Saturday at Lincoln with the Sooners needing a victory for undisputed second place.

EAST—Harvard is the Big Three king, beating Yale 14 to 0 as the clincher. The week's card is topped by the Army-Navy clash but also includes the traditional Fordham-New York university game.

* * *

SOUTHWEST: The fireworks carry on here. The undefeated Aggies won a clear claim to the crown by resting Saturday when Texas Christian was tied by Rice, 0 to 0. Thursday, the Texas Turkey day, the Aggies seek to avenge the 7 to 0 upset the University of Texas hung on them a year ago.

DODDS WILL NOT DEFEND CROSS COUNTRY TITLE

EAST LANSING, Mich.—(INS)—Representatives of 21 colleges and universities gathered today for the fourth annual running of the national collegiate cross country championship over the four mile course of Michigan State college.

Among the favorites were the University of Indiana, defending champion, Purdue, Rhode Island State and Michigan State. Gilbert Dodds, of Ashland college, Ohio, was not back to defend the individual championship he won last year.

Green Bay, Bears Tied

Will Meet In Playoff For Shot at Giants.

CHICAGO—(AP)—The Chicago Bears and Green Bay Packers apparently are headed straight for a deadlock for the Western division tittle in the National Football league—and that would mean a payoff playoff with lots of jingles in the cash register.

The fact that the New York Giants have clinched the eastern crown—they did it yesterday by beating Washington, 20-13—brings home the reminder that it's nearly time for the inter-division championship battle.

If the Packers ease past Washington next Sunday, and if the Bears outscore Philadelphia this week and the Chicago Cardinals on Dec. 7, they will tie for Western sectional honors and will have to meet for a third time this season on Dec. 14, the date tentatively set for the titular showdown between the champs of East and West.

* * *

The Bears were the only team to beat the Packers this year (25-17 on Sept. 28) and the Packers were the only outfit to vanquish the Bears (16-14 on Nov. 2.).

Of course a playoff would extend the season seven more days and into December, which would not heighten the chance of sunshine and balmy breezes.

The Packers right now are sharp for a championship game. They showed it yesterday by mowing down the Pittsburgh Steelers, 54-7, setting a new scoring high for the season. Their Don Hutson, bound for a new single-season and all-time individual point totals, added a touchdown and two conversions for a 1941 sum of 75 points, four under the present record.

The Bears, too, proved their readiness for championship competition by whipping the Detroit Lions yesterday, 24-7. The Bears set a couple of more league marks—forging 25 first downs to beat their own previous mark of 24, and boosting their year's scoring total to 313 points, surpassing the old record of 298 for 11 games which they set in 1939.

The New York Giants, in winning their next-to-last game yesterday, earned their eighth victory and can finish with no worse than three defeats. Washington and Brooklyn, the next two clubs, already have four losses apiece.

The Chicago Cardinals tuned up for their concluding games against Detroit and the Bears by defeating Cleveland's last-place Rams, 7-0. Brooklyn and Philadelphia were idle.

Standings, yesterday's results and this week's schedule:

Eastern Division.

Clubs	W.	L.	T	For	Opp. Pts.
New York	8	2	0	231	93
Washington	5	4	0	139	178
Brooklyn	5	4	0	102	113
Philadelphia	2	6	1	91	149
Pittsburgh	1	8	1	96	241
Western Division.
Green Bay	9	1	0	236	103
Chicago Bears	8	1	0	313	109
Chicago Cardinals	3	5	1	100	142
Detroit	3	6	1	100	192

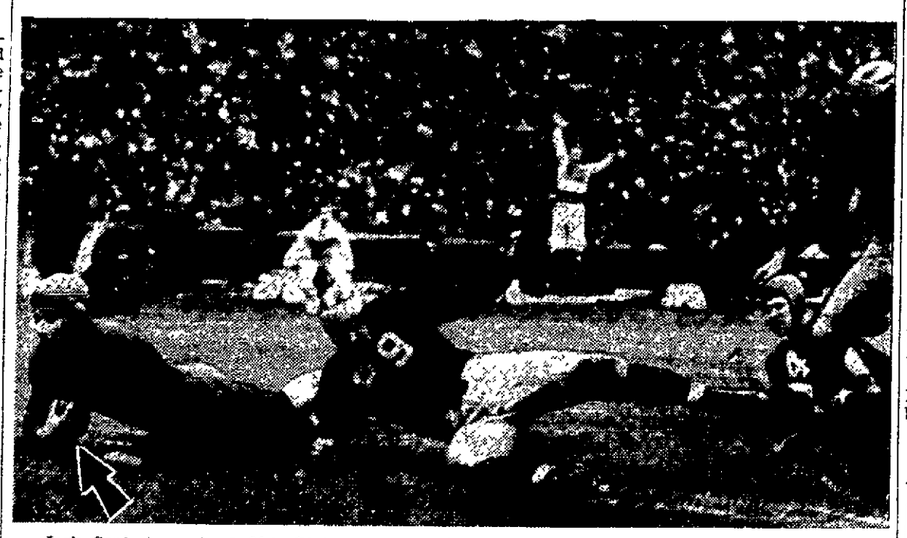
BARONS WIN 9 STRAIGHT LEAVE FOR SPRINGFIELD

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—(AP)—The Cleveland Barons, undefeated in nine straight games, left for Springfield today with their longest winning streak since they entered the American Hockey league.

Scoring with ease, the Barons defeated the Providence Reds last night 6 to 4 to run their string to eight victories, one tie and no defeats. The Barons held a 6 to 1 lead at the end of the second period and then coasted in.

Here's Action As Bucks Tie Wolves



Jack Graf, (arrow) of Ohio State goes over for the team's first touchdown in the first quarter at Ann Arbor, Mich., as George Ceithalm (89) of the Wolverines rests uncomfortably on the turf after missing the tackle. The once-beaten teams closed their season with a 20 to 20 tie score.

Rams Sponsor Cage Clinic

Demonstrate Game Rule Changes In Last 50 Years.

Madison high school will sponsor a basketball clinic Wednesday at 8 p. m. to demonstrate changes in the methods and rules of basketball since its beginning 50 years ago this year.

Starting at 8 p. m., the show will first show play as it began in the Springfield, Mass., Y. M. C. A. college gymnasium. Demonstrating this type—complete with peach baskets rather than buckets—will be members of the Madison frosh playing a team chosen from the "M" association, athletic letter winners club.

Next will be an explanation of rule changes which will go into effect this year and an explanation of rule changes over the 50-year period.

* * *

Finally members of the first and second varsity teams for this year contrast rule changes in a practice game.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

NEW YORK — (The Special News Service)—New angle on "industrial" basketball bobs up in connection with the A.A.U. tourney at the Garden tonight . . . A winning team not only is a good ad for the company but where operations cover a wide territory, it boosts morale. The Phillips Oilers claim to have just as enthusiastic "alumni" at Notre Dame . . . Harvard's big Vern Miller kept his promise about stepping on the scales without concealment before the Yale game. He tipped the beam at 306 in full uniform and 292 without it . . . Just after Notre Dame beat Georgia Tech early in the season, Frank Leahy said: "Go through our schedule undefeated? Don't be silly. It just isn't in the books." . . . Let's see, wasn't it about that time Frank first said Notre Dame wouldn't be interested in a bowl game either?

Rose Bowl-Oregon State vs. Mississippi (if ole Miss comes through Saturday) . . . Alabama went and got eliminated. Sugar Bowl-Fordham vs. Duke (see Saturday's tip.) FORGOT TO DUCK

Bob White, St. Albans (Vt.) coach, was out duck hunting the other day when he felt strange sensation in his scalp. He reached up and grappled with a vigorous creature that turned out, when he had subdued it, to be an Arctic or Great Snow owl with a wing spread of 54 inches. Apparently it wanted his hat as a souvenir. Anyway, the boys now say it takes more than an owl to make Bob White quail.

Cheers In Ears, Brown Plots For Coming Year

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS—(AP)—With cheers still ringing for his successful big-time debut, Coach Paul E. Brown of Ohio State's footballers closed the books on the 1941 campaign today and looked forward to the 1942 opener with Indiana.

The "Miracle Man From Massillon," in his first year, led the Bucks to six wins, one defeat and a tie, and grabbed a second place tie in the Western conference by deadlocking mighty Michigan 20-20 Saturday in the season's finale before 85,000 fans.

When the scholastic mentor took over the Buckeye reins, the fans looked at the none-too-good talent and the tough schedule and decided he'd have a successful season if he could split even.

* * *

Yesterday he came back to Columbus from Ann Arbor to receive rousing reception from the stay-at-homes, but he sidestepped it and turned the spotlight over to his players. He was here only a few minutes before taking off again, attired in hunting clothes, for duck hunting along Lake Erie.

"I know we can't hunt on Sunday," he grinned, "but we want to be in the blinds early Monday." All his assistants went along.

He was due back before 3 p. m. today, when his freshmen and sophomores clash in a regulation game at the Stadium.

In talking over the season, Brown declared:

"No, I wasn't completely satisfied. I hate to lose games. The boys were great, and they stayed in there every minute. I couldn't ask for more loyalty than they offered.

* * *

Asked which team he was worried about most for next year, he answered:

"Well, I'm worried most about Ohio State team. Next I'm worried about Indiana, for we meet the Hoosiers in the opener."

Tonight the annual banquet for the footballers is booked in the Buck gymnasium—along with the election of a captain for next season. Only four juniors were on the 1941 squad, and only one of that quartet saw much action, which may result in the squad defying tradition and naming one of this year's sophomores as leader.

Last season's team, in winning four and losing four, scored 99 points and allowed 113. Brown's Bucks, however, scored 167 and allowed 109. In other departments of play, the statistics for the campaign show: (Ohio figures second).

First downs, 88 to 108; yards by rushing, 1154 to 1770; passes attempted, 135 to 66; passes completed, 57 to 29; passes intercepted by nine to 20; yards gained from passing, 698 to 639; average yards per completion, 12.2 to 22; punting average, 36 to 33; total yards by rushing and passing, 1852 to 2409, and total penalties, 182 to 289.

State Champions Celebrate Season

Mansfield's two straight-time girls' state softball team, the Provident Loans, celebrated their successful season with fine dinner Saturday night in the basement of the Wonderbar and made arrangements to cop next year's state title.

In spite of his objections, F. L. "Doc" Daugherty was elected manager for next year, and Donna Schuster was re-elected captain. Jean Herrick was named secretary and Mary Whiteman treasurer.

C. M. Crafton, city service-safety director, was principal speaker of the evening, while short talks were given by Harold E. Amsbaugh, general manager of the Mansfield Provident Loan company, District Softball Commissioner Wagner of Elyria, and Rex Hess, sports editor of The News-Journal.

City News Gridders Trounce Galion 40-0

Pass Interceptions Help Swell Mansfield's Winning Total

There's no more argument. The Mansfield City News football club is the champion of the territory including Richland and Crawford counties. Yesterday at Galion the City News outfit defeated the Galion Jaycees, and for the second time in two weeks, but by the convincing score of 40 to 0.

Galion may still want revenge. But it is willing to wait for the balmy autumnal days of 1942.

Yesterday's ball game before about 900 fans wasn't as bad a run-tway as the score would indicate. At the half Mansfield led by only 7 to 0.

But in the second half everything Galion did went wrong, and everything the Mansfielders did went the other way. Pass interceptions accounted for four of the Mansfield touchdowns, either providing the score or setting the opportunity for the score.

Until the last two weeks the Galion club had gone through an undefeated season while Mansfield had been losing to the South Akron Awnings, Steubenville and Minerva which now claims the Ohio semi-pro championship.

But in these last two weeks the Mansfield club has shattered the Galion record with two victories and 53 points to nothing for the Jaycees.

Mansfield marched right from the kickoff for its first touchdown. And after being tied up for the rest of the half, the City News club took advantage of Galion's frantic scoring efforts to pile up its convincing point total in the second half.

* * *

Floyd Southard raced 34 yards for the second touchdown. Al Schwaner galloped 40 yards for the third. Southard tossed nine yards to DeNero for the next. Al Schwaner took a lateral and ran 34 yards for the next and Elmer Dials intercepted a Galion lateral and ran 30 yards for the final marker.

Reserve Tops Ohio Squads

Won 7, Lost None In Buckeye Competition.

By JAMES EMERSON

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Without fear or favor and only a slight trepidation for what tomorrow's mail will bring, we feel it our duty to nominate Western Reserve's fine football team for the 1941 mythical Ohio gridiron title.

On comparison of the season records of Ohio's 36 collegiate pigskin aggregations (excluding big league Ohio State), there is scarcely any other logical conclusion—unless you are a supporter of Youngstown, Xavier, Bowling Green or perhaps a half dozen other clubs.

We'll take Tom Davies' Reserve powerhouse, anywhy. After all it did everything asked of it in Ohio, rolling over seven Buckeye elevens without a tie or a loss.

The list of victims is impressive and representative—Ohio U., Akron, Baldwin-Wallace, Kent State, John Carroll, and Miami, climaxed by a 26 to 6 Thanksgiving conquest of Case, previously unbeaten and untied.

Reserve's only setback came in the first game of the season, 7 to 0, from Western Michigan, an out-of-state team which has showed its class by sweeping through the season with a perfect record.

If the clashes with out-of-state schools are deleted from the books, the final Ohio vs. Ohio football chart this fall leaves five schools unbeaten within the state—Reserve (7-0); Ohio Northern (5-0-1); Toledo (2-0); Youngstown (2-0), and Xavier (2-0).

Youngstown was the only eleven in the state to complete its entire schedule without a loss but the Penguins met—and defeated—only two Buckeye outfits, Ohio U. and Akron. Ohio Northern's opposition in Ohio was representative of its class but hardly up to the Reserve standard. The Polar Bears defeated Findlay, Capital, Muskingum, Mt. Union and Heidelberg but were tied by Denison.

By the process of elimination, the intra-state competition standings disclose that Buckeye pigskin representatives did better than average for themselves against outside teams, winning 57 games, losing 40 and tying three for a neat percentage of .588.

* * *

Ohio State, Xavier and Dayton did best against foreign rivals. Paul Brown's Bucks captured six, lost one and tied one; Xavier, with Georgetown of Washington yet to play has won six and lost one while Dayton, defeated twice within the state, has five victories and one defeat outside.

At the other extreme, little Rio Grande pulled down the average with seven straight losses to foreign foes.

The close of the season brings the usual post mortems and second guessing along with an unusually bright outlook for interesting competition next year. Here are some personal "best" and "worst" nominations:

Teams to watch in 1942—Western Reserve, Ohio U., Bowling Green, Ohio Wesleyan, Youngstown and Akron.

Most improved this year over last year—Bowling Green, Otterbein, Kenyon, Heidelberg, Case.

JUZWIK PLAYS AGAIN

NEW YORK—(INS)—Steve Juzwik of Notre Dame and Bill DeCorrevont of Northwestern will be among the Yankee All-Star players who will collide with a Negro All-Star team next Sunday at the Polo Grounds for benefit of Catholic, Jewish and Negro charities, officials of the Associated Football Charities, Inc., sponsors of the game, disclosed today.

Mid-Atlantic Has 8 Clubs

Baseball Loop Retains Classification at Meet.

ZANESVILLE—(AP)—The Mid-Atlantic Baseball league will have eight clubs again next year and remain in Class C. President Elmer Daily reported today.

Daily said representatives of all teams playing this year indicated at the Mid-Atlantic directors' annual meeting here yesterday they would start in 1942, subject to approval of major league sponsors.

A proposal to raise the loop's classification to B was ruled out definitely by Daily because, he said, it would cost each club an additional $2,000 to $3,000 a season.

Cities in the circuit next year will be Zanesville, Dayton, Springfield, Canton, Akron and Youngstown, Erie, Pa., and Charleston, W. Va. Final approval is expected from sponsors at next month's major league meet.

Ownership transfer of the Zanesville club, however, was indicated by Acting Secretary James Campbell who reported a 1940 loss of about $8,000 although 52,000 customers paid to see games. William Simpson, Akron grocer, held the reins last season.

BIG ARMY GUNS STEADILY ECHO ON LAKE ERIE

Test Firing Stepped Up at U. S. Proving Ground on Sandusky Bay.

(By United Press)

PORT CLINTON—The crash of artillery, firing out into Lake Erie, is a familiar sound to people living around historic Sandusky Bay.

For here, at the Erie Proving Ground, is the army's No. 1 artillery testing station. A federal reservation, the 1,158-acre tract is a field station of the army's ordnance department.

As long black freighters plod along the lake, carying iron ore to steel mills of the Great Lake area, completed artillery finds its way back to the ground at the little village of La Carne for final tests before release to the army.

The big guns come from their factories packed in rust-resisting cosmoline. Parts are cleaned with gasoline and steam spray, then the guns are assembled and checked for proper gage and defects. After passing these tests, a giant crane lifts them onto mounts for performance tests.

With elevation at "zero" the range is about two miles out into the lake. Solid steel slugs are used in place of regulation shells. Sand replaces powder in the high-explosive types of projectiles.

A sign on the ground says 'Don't make mistakes. To do so may cost a brave soldier's life."

Patrol ships with two-way radio apparatus clear all boats from the lake range and the men at the guns plug their ears, open their mouths and stand on tiptoe. A whistle is blown. Flames shoot from the gun and observers are buffeted by blasts of air as a projectile hurtles into the lake, plowing up clouds of spray and, because it is spinning, veers off to the left.

Ducks—thousands of them native to the surrounding marshes—pay no attention to this daily routine.

Only after every piece of artillery has passed this test of fire will it be released to the army. Not merely the gun, but its recoil mechanism and carriage must pass rigorous examination.

The ground has been in continuous operation since it was opened in May, 1918. There are 37 officers, 200 soldiers and 800 civilians employed on the grounds—compared with three officers and about 40 men a year ago.

A civilian mechanical engineer, Lee W. Perry, is in charge of proof firing. Col. T. K. Vincent is commanding officer and Major Bernard Whittaker heads the Proof Division.

The proving ground is considered the principal storage location for medium types of artillery. 155-mm and 240-mm guns are among those commonly tested. The grounds recently approved the mounted guns of the new 28-ton Chrysler tanks.

World war 155-mm guns also are being re-mounted at the grounds. Weighing between eight and nine tons, the big fellows are being placed on new streamlined carriages with pneumatic tires and wheel brakes, ready to be moved by fast tractors.

MEMORIAL PROPOSED

BISBEE, Ariz. —(U.P.)— A movement to establish a memorial to Francisco Vasquez de Coronado, Spanish conquistador who brought civilization to the southwest, has been started by park service leaders of United States and Mexico. It is proposed that a 2,800-acre tract on the Mexican border in Cochise county be set aside.

WHEELBARROW MOTOR DRIVEN

San Francisco Man Obtains Patent To Aid Workers on Construction Jobs.

(By United Press)

SAN FRANCISCO—Patent 2,253,288, just issued by the U. S. Bureau of Patents, is going to mean a lot to the sons of toil who push wheelbarrows in the nation's great construction jobs, Albert De Lucchi, holder of the patent believes.

De Lucchi has invented and patented a motor-driven wheelbarrow and all the operator has to do is lift the handles, turn the switch and steer the wheelbarrow load.

De Lucchi's father is a contractor and Albert went into the business with him 10 years ago. He started from the bottom, and that meant pushing many a wearying load of concrete, sand or other materials, via wheelbarrow.

He watched other mechanical aids, like ditch-diggers, scraper lines and pole-setters, saving man's muscles and wondered why the age of the machine couldn't be extended to the wheelbarrow.

After a year of experiment, the 29-year-old De Lucchi produced a successful model.

A year passed, however, before he was granted the patent. Now he's ready to enter production.

De Lucchi explained there had been a motorized wheelbarrow developed previously but "the motor was in the bucket, and a lot of good that was when your bucket was full of wet concrete."

In his machine, the motor is carried between two legs of the wheelbarrow, with a chain drive to the front wheel. The fuel tank is back of the bucket and operates by gravity feed. The speed control is in the right-hand grip on the handles. The one-cylinder gasoline engine which operates the wheel-barrow uses about one quart of fuel a day.

De Lucchi said his device can carry as much as half a ton of material up a plank to a second-story window "like a motorcycle making a hill-run."

On New Year's eve night, the the Moravians of Winston-Salem, N. C., gather to hear their bishop read a careful and lengthy "diary" of the past year. The document is called the memorabilia.

PEOPLE SEEM TO LIKE STEVE ROE—THE NEW MEMBER OF THE BARNESVILLE COMMUNITY.
HELLO-SARAH.
YOU'RE HOME EARLY JOHN—AND I'M GLAD—I MET LITTLE STEVE AND I WANT TO TELL YOU ALL ABOUT HIM...
IT'S NO WONDER THAT COLLEEN BRANNER IS CRAZY ABOUT HIM.—I ASKED HIM TO HAVE A SLICE OF APPLE PIE AND HE SAID MRS. BRANNER HAD ASKED HIM NOT TO ANNOY ME—BUT CONFIDENTIALLY—THAT HE COULD EAT APPLE PIE VERY QUIETLY!
SARAH—I CAME HOME TO TELL YOU SOMETHING—I SHOULD HAVE TOLD YOU THIS BEFORE YOU MARRIED ME—NOW KEEP YOUR CHIN UP!..
WHAT IS IT JOHN?
AS A LITTLE BOY, I WAS KNOWN FAR AND WIDE FOR EATING APPLE PIE VERY QUIETLY
VERY WELL—I'LL GET IT.

PAM—Breaking the News. By A. W. Brewerton

THE SON OF A RICH BANKER, HEY? I THOUGHT HE WAS QUALITY, ALL RIGHT!
I MET HIS FATHER, CLARE. HE WAS PRECIOUS.
11-24
AND YOU COULD SEE HE SIMPLY WORSHIPPED HIS SON!
ALLEN—I MEAN CAREY—WAS A SWEET LAD. I COULD HAVE FALLEN FOR HIM EASY!
HE WAS ENGAGED TO A GIRL NAMED PEGGY MILLER
PEGGY MILLER! OH, THAT'S THE NAME HE RE-MEMBERED, ISN'T IT? POOR GIRL, GUESS HIS KIDNAP-ING AND SUPPOSED DROWNING NEARLY KILLED HER!
BUT THINK OF HIS POOR MOTHER, CLARE. I KNOW SHE'S A DEAR!
AND, IN A FAR-DISTANT CITY.
I GUESS I'M AWFULLY WEAK, GEORGE. SEEMS AS IF I'LL NEVER BE RESIGNED TO LOSING CAREY.
MARY, WHEN I WAS AWAY I THOUGHT I SAW CAREY ON A STREET IN AN EASTERN CITY. Y'KNOW, WE MIGHT HAVE BEEN MIS-TAKEN ABOUT THAT IDENTIFICA-TION!
GEORGE! YOU DON'T REALLY THINK SO?

SETTLEMENT OF COAL DISPUTE BOOSTS STOCKS

Fast Opening Gains Shown In All Departments During First Hour.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—A little brighter labor picture today helped the stock market put on a moderate advance.

At a fairly fast opening gains of fractions to a point or so were posted in all departments. Dealings then slackened and top prices were reduced in many cases near the second hour.

Better early performers included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Southern Railway, Union Pacific, Chesapeake & Ohio, Chrysler U. S. Rubber, Sears Roebuck, J. I. Case, United Aircraft, Western Union, Anaconda, International Nickel, Westinghouse, Du Pont, Eastman Kodak, U. S. Gypsum, Sun Oil and General Electric.

Market analysts noted estimates that, despite the armistice in the coal mine controversy, steel producers would continue to feel the impact of fuel shortage for some time to come.

Holders of oil company shares scanned surveys indicating daily crude output in the United States last week shot up to more than 4,300,000 barrels, establishing by a wide margin a new record. The previous daily mark was 4,110,000 barrels reached in the week ended Oct. 18.

PLEADS GUILTY

Defendant Arrested At Ashland On Radio Charge Faces Fine.

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Harry R. Reeves, 42, of Massillon, today pleaded guilty before U. S. Commissioner B. D. Nicola to two counts of violating the federal communications act and was held to the federal grand jury under $500 bond.

Arrested at Ashland, O., Reeves was charged with operating a radio station in his home without obtaining an operator's or a station license. Each offense is punishable by a $10,000 fine or two-year imprisonment or both.

POPE TO SPEAK

Will Deliver Radio Address From Vatican City, Dec. 24.

VATICAN CITY—(UP)—Reliable sources said today that Pope Pius will deliver a world-wide radio message on Christmas eve, urging statesmen to "be watchful for any opportunity to negotiate peace during 1942."

Under present plans, the speech would be broadcast at noon, Dec. 24, over Vatican City radio.

Relief At Last For Your Cough

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes.

Creomulsion blends beechwood creosote by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics.

No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough, permitting rest and sleep, or you are to have your money back. (Adv.)

COMEDIAN PLANS TO WED ACTRESS

Berle to Wed Joyce Matthews When She Arrives In Hollywood.

HOLLYWOOD —(INS)— Milton Berle, screen funnyman, told friends today that he will marry Joyce Matthews, film and stage actress, shortly after she arrives in Hollywodo from New York Thursday.

Miss Mathews married Col. Gonzalo Gomez, 41-year-old son of the former dictator of Venezuela, in White Plains, N Y., May 9, 1940, after they had met six days before.

The marriage went on the rocks ten days later and the actress filed suit for divorce in Chicago in August, 1940.

FORCE LANDED

Largest Canadian Troop Convoy Arrives In Britain.

A BRITISH PORT —(AP)— The 5th Canadian (armored) Division has landed safely in Britain in the largest troop convoy ever to reach Britain, it was announced today.

It took several days to disembark the contingent, so large was it. Thousands upon thousands of Canadians in battle kit poured ashore and into trains which took them to training camps in the south of England.

U. S. READY TO CONSIDER UMW SHOP ISSUE

Arbitration Board Prepares To Meet as Miners Return To Pits.

protect the union's present membership, but not force non-union members to join the UMWA.

The week old strike of 53,000 captive miners and the sympathy strike of an estimated 150,000 commercial miners ended Saturday after Lewis accepted President Roosevelt's proposal that the dispute be submitted to an arbitration board. The miners and the steel companies are bound to accept the board's decision.

Despite the return of miners to the pits, congress went ahead with its plans to consider legislation for curbing defense strikes. The house labor committee began hearings today on a bill sponsored by its chairman, Mary T. Norton, D., N. J., which would give statutory authority to the national defense mediation board to enforce a 30-day "cooling off" period before strikes. The board now depends upon voluntary action of disputants.

Mr. Roosevelt told Mrs. Norton Saturday that he still thought legislation to curtail defense strikes was "quite important," but declined to specify the type of legislation he wanted, contending that that was the committee's job.

Dr John R. Steelman, director of the U. S. conciliation service, will be the chairman on the board. The other members are Lewis, representing the UMWA, and Benjamin Fairless, president of the United States Steel company which is the largest owner of "captive" mines.

Miners Return To 'Captive' Pits Today

PITTSBURGH—(U.P.)—Coal miners returned to work today, ending a week-long strike which had threatened steel production.

Members of the United Mine Workers (CIO) approved with only minor criticism the action of President John L. Lewis in submitting the union shop demand to arbitration. More than 53,000 miners in the captive mines owned by the steel companies, had struck for a union shop, and were joined by approximately 150,000 workers in commercial mines who walked out in sympathy.

The miners' return forestalled wide-spread shut-downs of steel mills because of coal shortages. Several plants had curtailed operations. The Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation, hardest hit, shut down 11 blast furnaces and estimated that it would be mid-week before it returned to full operation. By that time, officials said, 30,000 tons of steel will have been lost.

A Carnegie - Illinois spokesman said operations would be "restored as quickly as possible after coal deliveries are resumed." In addition to the 11 blast furnaces banked in the Pittsburgh and Chicago areas, the corporation suspended operations in the 80-inch hot strip mill of its Irvin works here, reduced production by 30 per cent at the Clairton, Pa., by-products coke plant, and banked 12 open hearths at the Clairton Steel mill.

SHARON BARN HIT BY FIRE

Damage Estimated at $2,000 In Sunday Blaze Near Shelby.

SHELBY—A barn on the Baker-Pitney farm, south of here on State Route 61, in Sharon township burned to the ground Sunday night.

Damage was estimated by Fire Chief Eugene Schull at $2,000. The fire destroyed five tons of hay, a large amount of soy beans and corn stored in the building.

Cattle and chickens were removed from the building before the flames reached the ground floor. Origin of the fire was unknown.

The blaze was discovered by Paul Pitney, who lives at the farm, at 5:50 p. m. He called the Shelby fire department. The flames were beyond control by the time the department reached the scene. All firemen could do was protect adjacent buildings.

The families of Kenneth Baker and Paul Pitney lived at the farm.

Meanwhile, officials from the state fire marshal's office at Columbus were investigating a fire that burned the top story of the Oxman building here. A report of the investigation will be made later.
